Brownson Gives a Cordial Greeting to President at White House Function

Rear Admiral Fails to Show Animosity During New Year Reception.

REAR ADMIRAL BROWNSON.

WASHINGTON Jan. 1. THEODORE ROOSEVELT today officiated for the seventh time at the New Year reception at the White House. Assisting him in exchanging the salutations of the season were Mrs. Roosevelt and the members and ladies of the House.

Rear Admiral Brownson was one of the first officers of the navy to greet President Roosevelt. To do this he left his place in the line and made his way through the crowd and into the red parlor, passing Rear Admiral Rixey and taking his place immediately after the army officers who preceded the navy.

Admiral Brownson's hand was grasped by several of his brother officers as he was making his way ahead of them. After his greeting to the President, which was cordial, he remained in the east room for some time chatting and receiving greetings.

President Roosevelt took occasion in his New Year's greeting to Mr. Starr, who has just celebrated his one-hundredth birthday anniversary, to congratulate the veteran member of the Oldest Inhabitant's Association, and to wish him many returns of the day.

The costumes of Mrs. Roosevelt and the ladies of the Cabinet were strikingly handsome, and in color and contrasts were particularly impressive. Mrs. Roosevelt was gowned in old blue marquisette, the skirt very full and an arangement of velvet ribbon in bow knots and garlands making a trimming which reached half way up to the belt.

The President greeted personally 5645 persons at the reception, and after shaking hands that number of times, showed no trace of fatigue.

CZAR'S OFFICER SAYS JAPS CAN SINK OUR FLEET

Baron Kull Predicts Disaster for America in War on Pacific.

CHICAGO, Jan. 1.—"The American fleet now on its way to the Pacific will go down in defeat if it ever engages the battleships of Japan," declared Baron Woldemar Kull, a former officer in the Russian Imperial Guard, following an address delivered by him last night at the Moody Bible Institute.

"As powerful as this splendid fleet is," continued he, "my opinion that it would be annihilated is the one also held by most of the naval and army officers of the Czar—men who know and can appreciate the power of the Mikado's forces.

"Many different opinions have been expressed in my country as to the present attitude of the United States toward Japan, but we realize that the fleet movement is of tremendous significance. A war between Japan and the United States would be a terrible thing. Russia would sympathize, I believe, with America, because Japan is her natural enemy; but the fangs of the Russian bear have been drawn, and I believe that America is doomed also to crushing disaster.

"I do not say this because I do not believe the Americans are brave fighters. The Russians are brave kghters, too. But America is a business and not a military nation. It did not prove itself entitled to a place as a military nation after the war with Spain, because Spain was in its last staggers.

"There is just one way in which America could be returned victor—by her tremendous financial resources. She has more money than any nation in the world. She might break Japan's coffers and defeat her in that way. Just before coming to Chicago I visited John D. Rockefeller, and we had many interesting sessions of golf. I believe in case of war he would show himself a true patriot by throwing his vast wealth in the breach of disaster."

HUGHES ASKS LEGISLATURE TO STOP RACETRACK BETTING

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 1.—Gov. Hughes message, read to the Legislature today, pleads for the complete suspension of racetrack gambling throughout the State by repealing the present racing law. Gov. Hughes also wants the Massachusetts ballot system, where the names of candidates are grouped under office headings and the political complexion of the men is not indicated.

His banking recommendations are along the line advocated by the commission that investigated the present laws. Forest reserve and water storage are indorsed. He also takes a fling at the salary question for the justices of the Supreme Court and declares this entire matter should be revamped and revised.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press. In addition it receives the service of the United Press and maintains a leased wire to its New York Bureau. Its news-gathering organization is unsurpassed in the United States. No other St. Louis newspaper approaches it.

POLICE CHIEF KILLS MAN AND IS SLAIN IN DUEL

Official and Merchant Draw Weapons After Hot Quarrel.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BEATTYVILLE, Ky., Jan. 1.—Joseph Davidson, Chief of Police of Beattyville, and Robert Evans, a merchant, shot and killed each other last night. The men, while on speaking terms, had borne a grudge for years and it often had been said that sooner or later it would be settled in a tragedy.

Davidson had been drinking heavily and it was thought he would sober up before the new year, as the last saloon closed its doors Christmas night.

It seems he reserved a supply of liquor and was looking for trouble.

Asked About Friendship.

The only eye-witness to the tragedy was Carter Stamper, who was in Evans' store at the time of the shooting and who says that Davidson entered the store and said to Evans: "Are you my friend?" Evans replied, "Joe, you knew I have nothing against you," and tried to persuade him to go nome, as he wanted to close his store, and his little son was waiting for him in the street.

Davidson replied: "I would rather drink my enemy's blood than hurt my friend's feelings."

Evans said, "I must go," and placed his hand in his pocket, presumably for the store key, when Davidson said:

"Take your hand out of your pocket."

Die Side by Side.

"Joe, I don't want to bother with you," said Evans. Then Davidson pulled a revolver and shot Evans in the head. Despite this injury Evans pulled his revolver, fired two shots into Davidson, one in the head and the other in the heart, and before the smoke of the pistols had hardly cleared away both men were lying dead almost side by side.

Davidson had been Chief of Police of Beattyville for four years. He killed a man who resisted arrest a year ago, but was acquitted for this at the July term of Court.

He leaves five children, almost penniless. Evans had built up a prosperous business. He leaves a wife and several small children.

THAW LEADS NEW YEAR DIN IN TOMBS, EATS DELMONICO DINNER

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Harry Thaw led the New Year celebration in the Tombs Prison, and it was the most uproarious ever known in that prison. In some manner tin horns were obtained by the prisoners, and, as the lights were turned on at midnight the young Pittsburg millionaire blew a loud blast from his horn. At this signal the uproar began.

Tin pans were banged against the cell doors and horns screeched and tooted. The noise was continued for three-quarters of an hour. Thaw passed the day alone. Not even his wife was permitted to wish him a "Happy New Year!" in prison.

His meals will be sent in from Delmonico's, the breakfast being delivered at the prison door by his wife's chauffeur.

BOY IN WINDOW HIT BY BULLET REVELER SHOOTS

WOUND IS IN LUNG

Person Who Fired Shot Not Seen Either by Child or His Mother.

Clarence Hartman, 9 years old, of 2612 North Spring avenue was shot through the right lung by a stray bullet which came through the window of his bedroom during the New Year's celebration at midnight.

He is at the Deaconess Hospital, 4125 West Belle place, and his condition is said to be serious. Efforts to extract the bullet have been unsuccessful.

Clarence was anxious to sit up and watch the old year out, but at 10 p. m. he became so drowsy that his mother put him to bed.

Just before the Sand Man came he said: "Mother, be sure and wake me at midnight. I want to hear the horns and the bells and the shooting."

Child Is Shot.

Mrs. Hartmann raised the sash of the rear second-story window. When the din commenced Clarence jumped out of bed and placed his arm around his mother's waist.

They walked toward the window. When they were almost [illegible] they heard the report of a revolver.

"O, somebody's shooting," said Clarence, gleefully.

There was another shot.

Releasing his hold on his mother's waist Clarence put his hand to his right shoulder.

"Something hurts me here, mamma," he said.

Lighting the gas, Mrs. Hartmann saw flecks of blood on [illegible] and chin and a small, round hole through his nightshirt, just below the right collar bone.

She laid Clarence on the bed and called her husband, who telephoned for Dr. E. H. Johnson of 2438 North Grand avenue.

Bullet Penetrates Chest.

The physician said that the bullet apparently was partly spent, but that it struck the boy with sufficient force to penetrate his lung.

From the fact that it grazed the lips and chin before striking the shoulder, the doctor concluded that Clarence was leaning forward in his anxiety to see what was going on outside the window.

The police have been unable to learn who fired the shot. There is no building in the neighborhood taller than that occupied by the Hartmanns.

Boy Shot in Eye.

Otto Dankenbrink, 12 years old, and living at 148 St. George street, was struck under the right eye by a stray bullet from the revolver of some New Year's celebrant as he stood in the front door of his home, listening to the noise of the whistles and bells shortly after midnight.

The boy was taken to the office of a nearby physician. The bullet had inflicted only a glancing cut. His injury was not serious and he walked to his home.

All the Weather Man was able to announce after the interview was:

"Fair tonight and Thursday cooler tonight; minimum temperature tonight, about 30 degrees; variable winds."

Sobriety Price of His Freedom.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 1.—John Armstrong of St. Joseph, after serving more than a year in the Penitentiary for stealing a drink of whisky, was released today on a commutation issued by Gov. Folk. Under the terms of the commutation Armstrong will be free only so long as he refrains from the use of intoxicating liquor.

SHOT, DEFENDING SON, SPINK HAS FIGHTING CHANCE FOR HIS LIFE

Says He Was Wounded While Rushing to Get Possession of Pistol.

The X-ray machine will be used by City Hospital physicians to find the bullet that was fired into the body of Alfred H. Spink, president of the St. Louis World Publishing Co., by Victor D. Grow, a printer, at 5:50 p. m. Tuesday. Mr. Spink was resting well at the hospital Wednesday morning, and the doctors think he has a fighting chance for recovery. The shooting occured in the publishing company's office at 405 Market street.

At 10:30 Wednesday morning Mr. Spink awoke and made a brief statement concerning the shooting.

"I was at my desk when I heard my son and Grow quarreling in another room," he said. "I ran out to the other room to stop the quarrel. As I entered it I saw Grow standing in front of my son with a revolver in his hand, leveled at my son.

"I shouted at Grow: 'Put that gun away,' but, instead, he pointed it at me. I rushed forward, intending to take it away from him, but when I was about four feet from him he fired at me."

The bullet, which entered at the ninth rib on the left side, ranged downward and backward and lodged behind the abdominal cavity. Mr. Spink was taken immediately to the City Hospital, where an operation was performed, but the bullet could not be found.

Interfered in Quarrel.

The shooting was the result of a quarrel between William S. Spink, son of the publisher, and Grow. Mr. Spink interfered when he saw the scuffle between his son and the printer. Grow drew a revolver and fired two shots. Mr. Spink was bending forward when one of the bullets struck him in the left side. Grow broke loose from young Spink, ran to the Southern Hotel, wrote a letter to his wife and then surrendered to the police. He is locked up at the Central District Police Station.

"Grow was in a bad mood when he came into the World office Tuesday evening and demanded his wages," said William H. Spink to the Post-Dispatch. "He sat down in a chair and fell asleep. He had been carousing for four days, and I instructed the foreman not to pay him until he sobered up. We have had trouble with him before on account of his wages, and I did not want him to get his money until he realized fully what he was doing. He grappled with me. While we were scuffling my father came into the composing room and started toward us. Without any warning, Grow drew a revolver and fired twice, one of the bullets striking my father in the side."

Grow is 26 years old and lives with his wife and child at 4133 Finney avenue. He was not regularly employed at the World office, and had three days' wages due him when he called to demand his money.

Mr. Spink is 53 years old, and is widely known in sporting circles. He lives at 752 Bayard avenue. He has been publishing the St. Louis World for several years. His two sons, Alfred H. Spink Jr. and William S. Spink, were associated with him in publishing the paper.

Wrote Play, "Derby Winner."

Mr. Spink formerly was secretary of the St. Louis Unions, the famous baseball club owned by Henry V. Lucas. At one time he was identified with Chris Von der Ahe in the management of the old St. Louis Browns. He built the South Side Baseball Park, and afterward converted it into a racetrack. He wrote a play, "The Derby Winner," but it proved a financial loser. He later interested himself in the Madison racetrack, and then took charge of the night racing in St. Louis. When that was discontinued he became sporting editor of a St. Louis newspaper, and subsequently started the World.

ILLINOIS GIRL TO WED NEPHEW OF VON MOLTKE

Young Man Is a Count and Is Approved by Fiancee's Family.

CHICAGO, Jan. 1.—Another Illinois girl, Miss Marjorie Allen, daughter of the millionaire Moline manufacturer, has bestowed her heart and hand on a European nobleman and bearer of the famous name of Count Eberhardt Von Moltke, a grand-nephew of the celebrated German Field Marshal, according to a cable today to the Tribune.

The marriage was arranged to take place in Berlin in the coming spring, but was postponed to a later date owing to the inability of Miss Allen's father to come to Europe at that time.

Miss Allen met the Count, who occupies a high official position, in the executive office of the Hamburg-American line at Hamburg, while cruising with her parents on the Mediterranean last January. They were fellow passengers on a liner named after the Count's granduncle, "Moltke."

The couple fell in love at first sight and the engagement followed before they quit the ship.

Parents Approve of Match.

Miss Allen and her parents subsequently visited the Count in Hamburg and satisfied themselves he was in every respect a desirable suitor. He is 28 years old, tall, and handsome, and soldierly in appearance.

The Count says he is proud of the fact that he "hustles" for a living. He says that, like his fiancee's countrymen, he has no respect for men who are ashamed to work.

Moltke is a family name which, temporarily under a cloud in connection with the court scandal trial, is, according to universal opinion, on the threshold of complete rehabilitation, as the conviction of Editor Harden and the consequent vindication of Count Kuno von Moltke is regarded as inevitable.

OHIO BANKERS, FATHER AND SON, ARE ARRESTED

Misapplication of Funds Is Charged by National Examiner.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 1.—As a result of two affidavits filed in Federal Court by Thomas C. Thomas, National Bank Examiner, charging misapplication of funds of the First National Bank of Leetonia, O., C. N. Schmick, aged 66, president of the bank, and his son, W. The Schmicks say [illegible] are technical and that the bank has pay dollar for dollar.

LAMP EXPLODES AND FLAMES KILL THREE CHILDREN

Family Is Stricken by Fire and Tragedy as New Year Comes In.

DARES DOOM IN RESCUE

Mother Rushes Through Perilous Smoke and Blaze to Save Baby.

COUPLE IS DESTITUTE

Misforune Wrecks Home—Inquest Will Be Held by Coroner.

While Mr. and Mrs. George Steger of Collinsville were watching the old year die the lamp they had left burning beside the beds of their sleeping babies exploded and three babies were burned to death.

One child was saved through the heroism of the mother, who rushed into the house and snatched the little one from its blazing bed, but both mother and child were seriously burned and the child probably will die. The house was burned to the ground and the bodies of the three children were charred.

Steger is a clay miner. He lived on Canteen Creek in the district in the east end of Collinsville known as Helmsville, in a double frame cottage, the other half of which was occupied by the family of his brother.

Watch Old Year Out.

Their children, Joseph, aged 4; Tony, 3; George, 14 months, and Mary, 3 months, were put to bed early. A lamp, burning low, was left standing on a table within four feet of their beds. The parents went next door to watch the year out with Toney and his wife.

When the lamp exploded they thought at first it was someone welcoming the new year, but the screams of the children aroused them to the tragedy. They rushed out and saw the bedroom of the children in flames.

Mrs. Steger ran into the room, caught up Tony and ran out with... Steger ... his wife as she was about to rush ... into the burning house and beat o... flames which were enveloping her.

By that time the room was like a furnace and the cries of the other children were hushed. In a little while the destruction was complete.

While neighbors restrained the frantic father and mother, others raked the bodies of the children from the flames with poles. They were taken to the undertaking establishment of Martin Schroeppel in Collinsville, where an inquest will be held.

Lose All Their Possessions.

The Collinsville fire department responded to an alarm, but could not get across the creek, and would have been too late in any event to do any good.

Two physicians are trying to save the life of Tony.

The stricken father and mother lost everything that they had, as well as their three children, and start the year not only trebly bereft, but destitute.

Banker Risks Life for Babes.

PHILADEDPHIA, Jan. 1.—Robe... Holmes Page, a banker, rescued his tw... small children at the peril of his life ... early today when fire destroyed "Mount Airy," his magnificient country residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Page were in Philadelphia until late last night. When they reached home and opened the front door they were greeted by a bank of flames. Page procured a ladder, mounted to a second-story window and carried the children to safety as the flames swept around him. Page is a son of Harlan Page, the noted financier.

HAPPY NEW YEAR FOR THIS TOAD; HE GETS HIS FIRST MEAL IN THOUSAND YEARS

Pythagoras Had Been Buried in Limestone So Long He Forgot How to Eat.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Pythagoras, the toad, had his first meal in 1000 years yesterday at the Bronx Zoo. Four flies and an earthworm constituted the dinner of the little black creature that had been buried for so many centuries in limestone rock 500 feet down in a silver mine at Butte, Mont.

His eyes had been so long out of use that when the flies were placed before him the toad clumsily thrust his tongue to one side of the insects. But after several efforts Pythagoras succeeded in licking them up. He swallowed the worm as though his throat was rusty from lack of practice.

The ancient toad is slowly recovering his eyesight and the use of his limbs and is gradually turning green again, as he was in the Middle Ages. He has already emitted several feeble sounds, but the croak has not come back.

CLEW IN SWAMP MURDER MYSTERY FOUND IN BRITAIN

New Jersey Police Tracing Career of Albert Thompson, Yachtsman.

TOLD VARIOUS STORIES

Sweetheart in England Thinks Body in Morass Was His Wife.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HARRISON, N. J., Jan. 1.—The quest for a clew to the identity of the woman found murdered in a swamp near the Passaic River on Christmas day has led across the ocean. The conflicting identifications made by Mrs. Frank Hull, who first declared that the body was that of her friend, Mrs. Agnes Young, and then that it was her own sister, Minnie Jeanette Gaston, have only added to the mystery of one of the most puzzling cases the New Jersey authorities have ever attempted to solve.

Believing that Mrs. Hull is romancing in every detail of her various stories, the police have turned to the career of Albert Thompson, the man arrested in the yacht the Idle Hour, which was moored near the pool in which the nude body was found, and in the effort to uncover his record in England they have found that he, too, has made conflicting statements.

Slain Woman His Wife?

Rachel Richardson, the girl in Belper, England, who wrote the loving letters to Thompson, believes that the murdered woman is his wife. Cablegrams quote her as saying that two years ago Thompson returned to England, rejoined his wife and took her to the United States. The girl, who is a servant employed by Dr. R. A. Johnson at Beech Lawn, Belper, Derbyshire, said that she wrote several times to Thompson while he was in this country, and wanted to join him here.

"Several years ago," she said, "Thompson went to America. He returned here two years ago and rejoined his wife, from whom he had been separated. They both went back to America and I believe that they separated again. I have little doubt that the murdered woman is the wife, Ellen Thompson. She was tall and handsome and was well formed."

According to Thompson's brother, Stephen, now in Birmingham, England, Thompson's wife is in Sheffield, England. A cable dispatch from London says that Thompson, in a letter received by the brother two weeks ago, wrote:

"I have tried for a better life and sometimes have considered myself a failure, but today I am thankful for a lot of things. Firstly, I have my full health and more strength than some one or two years ago; secondly, I don't drink any beer, wine or spirits; thirdly, I have not been acquainted with any woman since I left New Zealand. These are three things for which I am most thankful. I have had a bit of a throwdown, but if I had been the scamp some people make me out to be I should have cut down; but you can't keep a good man down and these things prove I am a villain they claim me to be."

Stephen, commenting on the letter, said:

"He is not the man to do murder. I am off to America in the morning. My brother is innocent. He has an unfortunate dog and has had such time of it ever since his early days. He lived in Birmingham a long time with his wife. They had four children, two sons and two daughters. One son is with his mother in Sheffield, and the other is in New Zealand with his two girls."

Thompson's Remarkable Story.

When a reporter confronted the prisoner with this information the man paused for time in which to think, and then, without batting an eyelid, told one of the most remarkable of the numerous tales that he has evolved from his keenly intelligent brain.

It will be remembered that Thompson first said that he had never been married and was a woman hater. When it was proved that he had a wife in England, he said that he was parted from her and had not seen her in 20 years. He denied that he had any children and made other statements that have turned out to be untrue.

"Yes, I did return to England within the past few years," said Thompson today. "I sailed from New York in April of 1904, on the steamer Cedric. I went over determined to get my boy, Oliver, away from my wife."

Here Thompson was asked why he had denied that he had any children. To his questioner, who had listened to his denials of having a family, the prisoner said coldly:

"I never denied it. Why, I have four Oliver and George and Lillie and May.

"I found that my wife had obtained a divorce from me and was married to a man by the name of Brassington.

"Well, Oliver got my wife to consent to leave Brassington and go with us to New Zealand. I couldn't get the children without the mother, so I made the best of a bad bargain. I took Oliver and May to New Zealand first and then I went back after their mother and George and Lillie. In the second trip we arrived in Auckland, New Zealand, in January, 1905.

"My wife and children are there now. I left her again because we had trouble. The police down there know her. She used to get drunk."

Thompson refused to explain various inconsistencies in his remarkable tale but he stoutly maintained that he had never brought his wife to this country.

On Christmas day a woman ordered some things sent to Thompson's boat. Thompson was not seen with the dead woman.

INVASION OF NOBLEMEN RESENTED BY BURGLARS

Amalgamted Brotherhood Requires Apprenticeship Since Castle Was Looted.

CONVENTION PROTESTS

Raffles O'Jimmy Proposes That Thieves Play the Swell.

When news reached the Amalgamated Brotherhood of Journeyman Burglars, through last Sunday's papers, of the invasion of the burglary field by certain young English swells, who entered Chumley Castle and stole the family plate and the Duke's cigars for a joke, the executive committee of the order immediately called a general convention.

All the second-story men, sneak thieves, safe blowers, yeggmen and even such small fry as the strong-arm men, pickpockets and confidence men were urged to be present.

Warning Notices Issued.

The notices sent out read:

"No sooner did the public quit carrying John Smith checks in its hip-pocket wallet and replace the same with real money than a situation even more grave arose. The English nobility has gone in for burglary, not only injecting dilletantesism into the business, but actually depriving us of the occupation by which we earn our daily bread. Let us get together at once, brethren, and devise means of counteracting this insidious influence."

These notices were sent out by special messengers to every member of the order and when President Raffles O'Jimmy called the meeting to order the convention hall was packed to its capacity.

"An untoward state of affairs has arisen," said the chairman; "a thing that throws our whole profession topsy-turvy has transpired in England, where a lot of dukes, earls, knights, baronets and younger-son colonels in the army have pulled off a burglary that had Scotland Yard going for a whole day.

"This is a crisis. It presents a sociological problem the solution of which is hard to come at. Incidentally, it is the most unfair encroachment on the prerogatives of the proletariat we have yet encountered.

Defies Any Aristocrat.

"I defy any aristocrat in the bunch to lay his finger on a single instance of a burglar's attending any swell reception in evening clothes and hobnobbing with the grand dames there. I challenge the entire nobility to cite a single case of a second-story man with a coronet on his head entering the House of Lords for the purpose of voting on the home-rule bill.

"But now I assert, and I know you will back me up in it, the nobility must call a halt in their present course. If they insist on burgling, we will insist on having invitations to the King's house parties and to being accorded seats in the Cabinet.

"It is with sincere regret I thus express myself. I am overwhelmed with shame at the thought of having to truckle to the fads and follies of fashionable life. But this is a matter of principle with me. If the swells will play the burglar, then we burglars must play the swell. That is the only equitable solution, it seems to me, though, perhaps, some of the brethren will be able to suggest a remedy less heroic."

Second-Story Sam, an eminent one-eyed burglar from Chicago, concluded to give the Order the benefit of his wisdom.

"Retaliation would be our right," said he, "but not our entire right. We must insist on a discontinuance of this burglary business on the part of the nobility. Personally my wounded feelings will not be salved by having my nails manicured, wearing a claw-hammer coat and peering through an eye-glass at a lot of frosty dames sporting aigrettes and diamond ta-ra-ras.

"In the second place, I'm afraid me and the swells wouldn't be congenial. I can imagine some haughty peeress giving me a Fairbanks' stare and throwing it up to me that I was a burglar before I was a Duke, instead of a Duke before I was a burglar. And I'm sensitive about little matters of that kind. I don't want to hang around where I ain't wanted. I don't never give nobody the chance to do me like them Pilgrim mothers done Elinor Glyn—not if I sees 'em first."

Porch-Climber in Accord.

As Second-Story Sam sat down he glared about him with his one good eye. Bill the Porch-Climber spoke next. He was in accord with Second-Story Sam.

"It may flatter some of you fellows," Bill said, "to wear a silk hat and have a coat of arms embroidered on the bosom of your Sunday shirt, but not for mine. I'd rather crack the swellest crib in the country than to go there as a guest and dance with all the peaches in the garden of love. I'd rather swipe some family plate any day than stick my feet under the mahogany and eat off the plate with a Duke on one side and a fat, insipid heiress on the other. This may seem blunt, but I'm a practical man."

It was decided unanimously to have the various police departments of America and Europe appoint examining boards to pass on the qualifications of such burglars as have passed through 3-year apprenticeships. These boards, according to the decision of the convention, ought to be authorized to issue licenses, which must be exhibited on demand of the butler or proprietor of any establishment burglarized.

"That'll fix 'em," admitted Raffles O'Jimmy, "for these English nobles are too blase to study anything for three years."

Judge Hickman P. Rodgers: The victory won by the Post-Dispatch in forcing the passage of the free bridge bill through the Municipal Assembly.

Michael J. Mooney, Democratic committeeman Twenty-sixth Ward: The vigorous enforcement by Excise Commissioner Mulvihill of the State's anti-liquor laws, particularly with reference to the sale of intoxicants to women and the elimination of the wineroom evil.

25,000 RAILROAD EMPLOYES TAKE ANTI-LIQUOR PLEDGE

Northwestern's Men Have Learned That the Non-Drinkers Retain Their Jobs.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 1.—Probably the largest temperance movement any one business concern has ever known culminated on the Northwestern Railroad last night when a temperance pledge signed by 25,000 employes became effective.

Three months ago when the Northwestern began cutting its force to a winter basis, every man discharged was a drinking man, the teetotalers being retained in their positions. At that time it was announced that the road had inaugurated a policy of always retaining the non-drinking men. As a result the drinking men who remained with the road have decided to quit, and during the last month pledges have circulated all over the 7000 miles of the system.

PREVENTS HIS MOTHER FROM ENDING HER LIFE

Mother Is Frustrated in Her Plans to Commit Suicide With a Butcher Knife.

After preventing his mother from taking her life with a butcher knife shortly after the advent of the New Year because of the separation from her husband, Charles Mahler Jr., 2458 North Main street, asked that she be taken to the City Hospital and held for observation.

At 1:30 o'clock a policeman was sent to the Mahler home in response to a message from the son. The policeman was told that the mother had just been stopped as she had raised the butcher knife to kill herself.

Mrs. Mahler was taken to a hospital. There are two daughters and another son besides Charles.

MOTORMAN HURT IN CAR CRASH

Collision at Grand and Shenandoah Avenue Causes Injury.

The Compton car, eastbound, was struck by the Grand avenue car, northbound. Gates was thrown to the street and alighted on his head.

Hospital to care for Mr. Spink. Members of his family have been almost constantly with him since the shooting.

Foreman's Statement.

Edward E. Mull, 2935 Laclede avenue, a foreman in the World office, says the quarrel happened so quickly that he has but a confused recollection of it, though he was an eyewitness to the shooting.

"Grow had been asleep in the office all afternoon," he said, "and seemed to be in a stupor. I had his pay, $12.61, and tried twice to awaken him to pay him, but could not.

"The second time 'Billy' Spink told me to wait until Grow woke up of his own accord, so that he would remember being paid. A few minutes later Grow did wake up, and 'Billy' and I lifted him from the chair and told him he would have to get out. He mumbled something. I gave 'Billy' the pay envelope, and, as I walked away, saw him pressing it on Grow, who seemed to be refusing it.

"I had reached the door leading into Alfred Spink's office, and heard angry words, of which I didn't catch the meaning, exchanged between Grow and 'Billy.' I heard them scuffling, and as I turned Alfred Spink rushed by me from his office. Then came two shots, and he fell. I ran for a doctor."

Daughter Fainted in Office.

Mr. Spink's wife and his daughter, Florence, returning from a matinee and on their way to the World office to meet him, saw the crowd on the sidewalk.

Mr. Spink was to have accompanied them home to dinner. They pushed through the crowd and entered the outer office, where Fred Wood Stobie, a notary public, had a desk.

Miss Spink asked what had happened. Before Stobie could answer a bystander answered: "Al. Spink was shot."

The young woman fainted, and Stobie and others in the office threw ice water in her face to revive her.

The wife and daughter accompanied Mr. Spink to the hospital, and Mrs. Spink remained at his bedside all night.

MANY FIGHTS MARK NEW YEAR NOISE AND REVEL

Celebration One of the Most Disorderly in History of City.

POLICE ARE KEPT BUSY

Many Arrests Are Made, Following Various Altercations.

Despite the declaration of Chief Creecy that no disorderly noises would be tolerated, the New Year's eve just passed was one of the most disorderly in the history of St. Louis. Drunken revelers engaged in street fights in every part of the city except the downtown section, which was being patrolled by extra policemen, who were carrying out the Chief's instruction to suppress confetti throwing. In other parts of the city which were left unguarded men were shot and stabbed.

John Schmidt, 26 years old, a baker living at 4301 Carter avenue, was stabbed and probably fatally wounded by a negro on the sidewalk in front of 4028 Finney avenue at 12:50 a. m., Wednesday. He is at the City Hospital. The negro is locked up in the Dayton Street Station.

Schmidt, in company with 22 young men friends, was on his way home after a New Year's eve celebration. The members of his party were ringing cowbells and blowing horns, when he got in an argument with the negro.

Shot in a Saloon Fight.

During a general fight in a saloon at 1435 North Seventh street at 11 p. m., Tuesday, Herbert Wagner, 1408 North Eighth street, was shot through the right hand and later locked up in the Carr Street Station, charged with assault. Wagner was drinking with two friends when an argument arose as to who should pay for the drinks. Brezil Marazeski, the proprietor, went to his bartender's rescue by shooting Wagner. The crowd, with the exception of Wagner, then fled.

Shot Causes a Panic.

A revolver discharged in the midst of a crowd of women and children caused a panic and broke up a pianola concert in Fire Engine House No. 1, 2413 McNair avenue, at 11 p. m. Tuesday. One woman fainted. John J. Burke, clerk in the Wyoming Street Station, heard the shots and arrived in time to arrest Harry Langerecker, 22 years old, of 2403 Salena street.

One Negro Shoots Another.

Samuel H. Taylor, negro, 2344 Chestnut street, was shot in the arm by another negro known as "Didi" Chess, alias "One Eye," at 12:15 a. m. Wednesday, at Twenty-third and Chestnut streets.

George P. Jones, 3635 Laclede avenue, and Sam Hollingsworth, 910 Madison street, were taken to Central Station Tuesday night, charged with making a noise on the downtown streets. It was one of those "disorderly" noises barred by the Chief in which slapsticks were used.

Couldn't Wait Until Midnight.

Shooting into the air before the midnight bells proclaimed the passing of 1907 caused the arrest of Gallano Lambiaso, 313 Clark avenue, Tuesday night. He could not wait until 12, the police say, but began firing his revolver at 10:30 p. m.

Charles Staegermeyer, 48 years old, who lives at Fourth street and Lucas avenue, was knocked down, beaten and robbed of $6 by a half dozen young men at Sixth and St. Charles streets shortly after midnight. When found by the police he was lying in an alley. He had a bad scalp wound.

CONGRESS WILL IGNORE THE PRESIDENT, COCKRAN SAYS

May Talk Until He Is Hoarse, but Will Receive No Attention.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—It became known here today that Congress is to adjourn on April 29 next at the very latest, possibly on April 22. This is a great surprise to those who have believed that the session will last until June 1. They were taking the statement of the Speaker, made just after his arrival from Illinois in November, at its face value.

It bears out the declarations of W. Bourke Cockran and Champ Clark, the ranking minority members of the Ways and Means Committee, that this is to be a do-nothing Congress. They said so emphatically in the cloakroom of the House the day of adjournment for the holidays, and even Democrats smiled at them. It was pointed out to them that there are some things which must be done.

"Yes," said Cockran, "we must pass an appropriation bill to cover the actual running expenses of the Government and possibly to complete certain Government buildings now under way, but that is all.

No Chance Now.

"The whole trouble is the President has lost his influence. For two years he only had to speak the word and the thing was done. Now he may speak until he is hoarse and his words have no effect."

Clark agreed thoroughly with what Cockran said. He declared that the White House and "Uncle Joe" were so far apart, it was idle for anyone to speculate on the possibility of them getting together and doing anything.

MULVIHILL WISHES SALOON MEN A HAPPY NEW YEAR

They Cross Their Fingers at Democrats' Ball and Hope He'll Have One, Too.

Democrats and Democratesses, politicians common and preferred, statesmen in esse and statesmen in futuro, danced until they were thirsty and then drank beer until they felt refreshed for more dancing at the New Year's ball of the Democratic City Central Committee at the Northwest St. Louis Turner Hall, Easton avenue, near Vandeventer avenue, Tuesday night.

Excise Commissioner Mulvihill, who brought two young sons with him, was one of the early arrivals.

"Take good care of that lid," he said to the youth in the coat room as he passed in a new Christmas gift derby hat.

Later in the evening Mr. Mulvihill wished a "Happy New Year" to the bartenders and several prominent Democratic saloon keepers, who returned the greeting. But everybody had his fingers crossed.

Chairman "Lawler" Daley was omnipresent, with a handshake and a "Happy New Year" for everybody he met.

However, Mr. Daley's heart was elsewhere. His wife is seriously ill, following the birth of a daughter Christmas day. Mr. Daley left at midnight. He told friends the physicians hoped for an improvement in Mrs. Daly's condition within the next 24 hours.

Moore All Dressed Up.

Word had gone forth that among Democrats "clothes do not make the man" and that any sort of apparel would be correct at the New Year soiree. This notice did not reach former Judge Hiram Moore, however, who put on his Sunday suit and came to the dance looking like the best man at a swell afternoon church wedding.

Among the notable ones present these faces were observed, wreathed in genial cigar smoke: Speaker Isaac Conran of the House of Delegates, former Lieutenant-Governor John O'Meara, A. A. Aal, Simon Bass, James Shaner, Assistant City Attorney Mortimer Levy, former Railroad Commissioner Joseph Rice, Senator Kinney, T. J. Roe Jr., Dr. Gettys, Michael Moran, Phillip Dwyer, former Senator John P. Collins, Cornelius Fauntleroy, Judge Tom Stanton and a host of others.

There were also several well-known visitors from out of the city, among them Ed Dingle of St. Joseph, brother of Al Dingle, the Mayor of that City, and Senator Meyer, also of St. Joseph.

Justice Jimmy Miles and former Senator Schoenlaub were present by proxy and not in person. Two youths suspected of being the "bonbon boys" were observed on the floor.

At midnight the New Year was greeted with horns and bells and an hour afterward, while the band played "Home Sweet Home," the lid went on and the dance ended. It was nearly an hour later, however, before the last of the dancers had vanished and the last happy "dis" and "dat" had ceased to echo along Easton avenue.

BOER WAR HERO STORMS WIFE'S HOME, ENDS LIFE

Wounds Mother-in-law and Man Caller, Then Kills Himself.

LONDON, Jan. 1.—Maj. Coates Phillips, an officer who distinguished himself in the South American war, committed suicide here last night under remarkable circumstances. The Major had been divorced. Some time ago he attempted to kill himself in the residence of his former wife, but was restrained.

Last night he returned to the home of Mrs. Coates Phillips and forced his way in. His former wife, her mother and a man were in the house, but when they saw the excited man break in they fled. The Major opened fire with his revolver, aiming at every one he could see, and then blew out his brains. The man caller and the mother of Mrs. Coates Phillips were wounded, but not seriously.

INSPECTORS CHECK UP POSTOFFICE RECORD HERE

Charges Made by Wyman's Opponents Are Being Investigated.

Postoffice inspectors from Washington are checking up the St. Louis Postoffice. The reappointment of Postmaster Wyman will depend, it is said, largely upon the report of these inspectors to the Postmaster-General.

The inspectors were sent to St. Louis after the charge had been made in Washington that Chief Inspector Fulton, who has been inspecting the affairs of the local office, had not disclosed in his reports all the facts pertaining to irregularities that have occurred during the Wyman administration.

The enemies of Mr. Wyman say it only was after the special inspectors were sent on from Washington that he had written the letter to Peter G. Linchey, former superintendent of the Money Order Department, demanding the restoration of $4193 stolen by Elmer Smith, a clerk in a drug store substation. This shortage occurred in 1905. Linchey has not been connected with the Postoffice for two years.

Son Receives Word While Hurrying to Father's Bedside.

While hurrying to the bedside of his father, William S. McChesney Sr., dying of pneumonia at Pensacola, Fla., W. S. McChesney Jr., president of the Terminal Railroad Association, learned of his death at a small station in Tennessee. The funeral will be held Thursday at Lexington, Ky.

Mr. McChesney, who has for three years been residing with his son at 5619 Clemens avenue, recently went to Florida for his health. He is survived by his wife and four children. He was 82 years old, and a veteran of the Mexican war.

ACTOR ROUSES HOTEL GUESTS

He Had Been Watching Year Out at Athletic Club.

Screams of a woman aroused guests at the St. James Hotel at 4 a. m. Wednesday and brought House Detective Wallace to the door of room 214. Charles L. Arthur of Chicago, an actor, opened the door. Wallace told him the noise would have to stop. Arthur knocked him down. Wallace drew a revolver. Arthur slammed and locked the door. Policeman Ward was called and he arrested Arthur. Doctors at the City Dispensary said he had been drinking too much. At the Central District Station he said he had been watching the year out with friends at the Missouri Athletic Club. He was locked up.

PEANUTS GIVE WAY TO TURKEY AT FORMER VEGETARIAN RESTAURANT

Bill of Fare Undergoes Change Which Is Victory for the "New Thought."

New Year's at the St. Louis Vegetarian Cafe on Pine street witnessed the triumph of turkey and beef over vegetables. Turkey, enriched with gravy, was on the bill of fare for the first dinner of 1908.

It was the first time real meat ever had been admitted to the cafe kitchen or served to the customers, who have been wont to satisfy their hunger on chicken croquettes (made of peanuts), mock tenderloin (made of peanuts), imitation veal loaf (made of peanuts), peanut flour biscuit, peanut meal pudding and peanut coffee.

Customers Demand Meat.

But the New Year has brought to pass a strange transformation. There now issues from the kitchen the savory odor of real steaks, chops and roasts, blending with the fragrance of the peanut items on the bill of fare. In 1908 one may "consume animals" at the Vegetarian Cafe if he so desires. Olive oil has stepped to second place, making way for gravy.

"Peanut and grain foods have many devotees in the heat of summer," says the proprietor, "but as an all-the-year-round diet are not suited to the taste of St. Louisans. This city has not the real culture of the East nor the radicalism of the Far West. It compromises on vegetarianism and peanut diet in the summer time and meat in the winter."

Most of the guests at the Vegetarian Cafe now have taken to giving orders for the real meat and gravy, though some of the old guard still cling to the peanut chicken croquettes and the like.

Funeral of L. A. Benoist Today.

The funeral of Louis A. Benoist, aged 44, a member of the old and aristocratic family of that name, will be held from the Roman Catholic Cathedral Chapel, Maryland and Newstead avenues, at 10 a. m. today. Interment will be at Calvary Cemetery. Mr. Benoist, who had been in poor health for several years and who had been at the Alexian Brothers' Hospital for about a year, died at 6:30 p. m. Monday, following an attack of pneumonia. He was unmarried.

BRIDE WHO ELOPED AND WHO WAS FORGIVEN TO BE REMARRIED

"SCRAPPY BILL" JOYCE DID NOT CLOSE FOR FEAR OF RATIO 16 TO 1

His Clock Said 1:16, However, and Police Sergeant Stopped the New Year Toasts.

Making a choice between 1:16 and 16 to 1 in favor of the latter ratio, has brought "Scrappy Bill" Joyce, former member of the St. Louis Browns baseball club, into collision with Excise Commissioner Mulvihill's rule that all saloons mush close doors at 1 a. m. week days.

Joyce conducts a saloon at 215 North Sixth street and was serving a brisk demand for toasts to the New Year when Sergeant McMullen and Policemen Grady and McFarland strolled onto the scene.

It was 1:16 by Joyce's trustworthy clock. Sergeant McMullen noted the timepiece and in a monitory tone said to Joyce:

"What do you mean by keeping open? It's 1:16."

"No, it's 16 to 1," replied Joyce.

Sergeant McMullen called Joyce's attention to the clock.

"Why don't you put these men out?"

"Because the ratio is 16 to 1."

Sergeant McMullen counted the men before the bar. They were 16. Joyce's hand was on his breast. His meaning was apparent. The odds were against him and the thirsty group demanded more cheer.

"I am too great an admirer of Bryan to disregard his doctrines. I can't put these men out while they remain 16 to 1," said Joyce.

Sergeant McMullen and his aids put them out, however, and wrote a report to headquarters.

GIRL MOURNED AS DEAD CALLS SUICIDE A CRIME

Note Left by Her Leads Parents to Believe She Has Committed Suicide.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Detectives and relatives are searching the hospitals and river fronts today for some trace of Elvira Pescia, 22 years old, daughter of Francisco Pescia, a wealthy retired real estate dealer, who formerly was connected with the Agricultural Department of the Italian Government. The girl is believed to have committed suicide for some reason, which her family cannot explain. A letter from her was received by them today, saying:

"To All the Family: Suicide is certainly a crime. My feelings rebel at the thought, but this is the only road open to oblivion and to end this miserable existence of mine. I have suffered mortally and I have sought comfort in prayer and this, my last moment, my mind goes toward the Supreme Being of whom I implore forgiveness.

STUDENT IS SHOT WHILE ENGAGED IN FENCING BOUT

East St. Louis Youth Gets Wound From Discharge of Parlor Rifle.

Edwin Brockmeyer, aged 18, of 603 North Fourteenth street, East St. Louis, was shot in the right arm when Rufus Callison of 711 North Eleventh street accidentally discharged a parlor rifle while Brockmeyer and "Toots" Derloth, another high school student, were engaged in a fencing bout on a vacant lot near Brockmeyer's home Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. Edgar Little was called by the boy companions of Brockmeyer. He took the wounded boy to his office, Sixteenth and State streets, and removed the bullet, which had inflicted only a flesh wound.

BIG CABANNE STABLE IS FIRST NEW YEAR OFFERING TO FIRE KING

Residence District Is Lighted as Revelers Return Home—Engine Driver Hurt.

Cabanne ushered in the New Year with a fire that lit up that residence district for half an hour and totally destroyed the big stable at the rear of the home of Mrs. Sam T. Rathell of 5618 Cabanne avenue.

A great crowd of neighbors were soon dressed and at the scene of the fire. Reinforcements arrived from the scores of owl car passengers, returning from New Year's eve parties.

While Engine Company No. 43 was responding to a second alarm for the fire, George Harston, driver of the engine, was thrown from his seat when the engine pole slipped out. He fell to the street in front of 5544 Cabanne avenue. Spectators picked him up and carried him into the residence at 5537 Cabanne avenue.

Dr. Tanquary of 900 Belt avenue was called in and, after he had administered to the injured fireman, Harston was taken to his home at 522! Theodosia avenue in an ambulance. Dr. Tanquary said there was a slight concussion of the brain and several bruises about the fireman's body. He was not seriously hurt.

Fireman Frank Arrow of the Arcade company rushed into the burning stable when told that a negro coachman was supposed to be asleep there. There was no one in the stable and it was afterwards learned that no coachman is employed by Mrs. Ratheli at the present time.

The loss was estimated at $500.

Alleged Robber Identified.

Otto Schultz of 2606 Dickson street and Joseph Small of 1635 Morgan street Wednesday identified Jacob Eller of 1627 Franklin avenue as the man who flourished two revolvers at them and took $1.50 from Schultz's pockets at Seventeenth street and Franklin avenue Tuesday night. Eller denies the charge.

ALDERMEN— BAY WINDOWS—

Corporations and Other Unsightly Flesh Deposits Standing in Their Own Way, Reduced to Decent and Comfortable Proportions.

Sensible people don't carry a large surplus of fat if they know of any way to lose it—that appeals to them. The "simple life" for fat folks doesn't include the work-pile nor starvation, nothing strenuous nor harsh, and yet produces marvelous results in taking away fat deposits from where they ought not to be, without leaving a trace of wrinkle, furrow or fold. If it's folly to be fat, it's wisdom to be comfortable.

How would you like to draw in your waistline about 5, 10, or even 15 inches, and accomplish it without taking any violent exercise, going hungry or doing any stunt that imposes hardship? You can have plenty to eat, plenty to drink, plenty to work and plenty to think, yet the fat melts away. It becomes, not only in name, but actually superfluous, superabundant; it is rendered, so to say, melts away, or is changed into useful muscle, fiber, and tissue. This makes fat people not only exceedingly comfortable, but more highly attractive. All this is done gently and naturally by taking after meals and before bedtime one teaspoonful of the following prescription, which can be had at any good drug store and costs but a trifle: ½ ounce Marmola, ½ ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 3½ ounces Syrup Simplex.

In these days when there is so much substitution going on, it is well to see that you get Marmola in the original package, and then you have ample guarantee that for sheer merit of goodness there is nothing to equal it. Don't confound the Marmola Prescription with anything for which similar claims are put forth. It is in no sense a patent medicine. It is a doctor's prescription.—ADV.

ELOPING PAIR FORGIVEN, TO BE REMARRIED

Ritters Reconciled With Father Who Greeted Them With Shots.

BIG FEAST PREPARED

Orthodox Rabbi to Perform Ceremony to Satisfy Bride's Parents.

A three-weeks' honeymoon, perturbed by bullets which an irate father-in-law fired at the bridegroom, the arrest of both and their arraignment in Police Court, have convinced Mr. and Mrs. Max Ritter of 1414 North Nineteenth street that their secret marriage was a false start. So they will be remarried Sunday night at the Congregation of Sheerith S'phard, Fifteenth and Wash streets, with the conciliated parents of the bride co-operating.

The ceremony will be followed by a feast, for which the viands are being prepared, at the home of the bridegroom's parents at 1424 North Nineteenth street. Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Smith, the bride's parents, who live at 1019 North Leffingwell avenue, promise to be the gayest of the banqueters.

Orthodox Rabbi Obtained.

A rabbi of the Reformed Hebrew Church performed the secret marriage ceremony. At the request of Smith, an orthodox rabbi will officiate Sunday night.

Ritter, who is 20 years old, and Miss Clara Smith of the same age, were married Dec. 19. She returned immediately to her home and did not notify her parents of her change of name. Christmas day she spent with her husband, and, returning home at night, took him with her to beseech the paternal blessing. Smith slammed the door in the face of his son-in-law and fired two shots through the front window.

Both were arrested and charged in the Dayton Street Police Court Tuesday with disturbing each other's peace. When Judge Pollard saw how things stood—a reconciliation having been effected in the meantime—he discharged them. He fined Smith $5 for discharging firearms, but stayed it on his promise to shoot no more at his son-in-law.

Why I Lost My Job.

Reasons Why The Hands Like Me Cannot Satisfy Their Employers.

I believe my fate is not unlike that of thousands of other workers who daily lose their places for reasons they do not know, and probably would not believe. When their last pay envelope comes along it is usually "Your services no longer required." If the truth were known, the reason for their unceremonious removal would probably be that their usefulness was destroyed because of some mental worry, bodily ailment or general indisposition. These things, as we all know, are the most fruitful causes of failure in all walks of life. The battle of Waterloo was lost because of a headache. In this quick age our minds must be clear, rapid, active and free from outside influence or worry, or else we go down to failure with the throng of "floaters" who go from one place of employment to another, giving no satisfaction to others or to themselves, constantly growing older and less useful, with no ambition, no will power and no hope.

Every man requires from every other man the best that is in him. But no man can use or get the best that is in himself until he is first free from all fretful indispositions and worries.

That was my trouble. I was full of troubles. That's why I lost my job. My stomach in the first place was always out of order, and I was worrying about it and my mind grew cloudy and slow. I made mistakes, and grew grouchy. That was the end.

There are thousands like me, going about with "quick lunch" faces, dyspeptic manners, and repulsive atmospheres. No employer wants such men's services.

Take my advice. A healthy stomach is half the battle, for it keeps your mind clear, and your face rosy. I have a healthy stomach now and hold a good position, and my employer is satisfied, and so am I.

I started to take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which I was told were good for the worst cases of indigestion and dyspepsia. The first two tablets made a wonderful difference in my condition.

One ingredient of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digests 3000 grains of food. The stomach doesn't have to work at all. The Tablets do all the work, no matter how heavy your meal.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cure brash, eructations, burning sensations, bloat, irritations, loss of appetite, nausea, heartburn, lack of energy, loss of memory, and dyspepsia and indigestion in their very worst forms.

No other little tablets in the world can do so much. You should carry them around with you wherever you go and take them regularly after meals. Then you will realize what it is to be freed from stomach torment, and have a clear mind, a quick memory, a happy disposition, comfort and rest. Get Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store for 50c a package.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package, free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

LEAP YEAR HUSBAND HUNTERS FOILED---LEMONS FOR THEIRS

St. Louis Bachelors Form Protective Association, and Abolish Custom of Giving Presents to Proposing Maids.

Foiled again!

Who? Why, the leap year husband hunters.

The Bachelors' Leap Year Protective Association will file articles of incorporation, it is expected, within a few dys. Then the St. Louis spinsters and widows who have been looking forward to 1908 ever since 1904 left them unmated will have to take another look.

The organizers of the B. L. Y. P. A. held their first meeting last night in the new Coliseum. The vast edifice was crowded. The attendance was not limited to any social set or business class. It was realized that when men's liberty is at stake, artificial distinctions must be disregarded. Neither was there an age restriction. Any man old enough to get a marriage license, or have one issued with his parents' consent, was admitted. As there is no old age limit at the marriage license office, snowy hair was no bar to attendance and participation.

Murray Carleton, Jr., Theron Catlin and Sears Lehmann were as conspicuous on the stage as were older men like Robert S. Brookings, Tom Francis and Capt. Corkery.

Isaac S. Taylor, who had issued the call for the meeting, called it to order. He asked that nominations be made for temporary officers, and requested that he be not named.

Afraid of Scanlan.

"I see Phil Scanlan over there," said Mr. Taylor, "and as he blames me for cutting down the trees in Forest Park, I'm afraid he might not enter heartily into this movement if I remain at the head of it.

"On the contrary," said the Park Commissioner, interrupting, "I have already made up my mind to invite this organization, when one is formed, to hold its meetings in Forest Park, or, if desired, in other parks."

"If we go to O'Fallon Park, the spooners will rise up and drive us out," suggested Ralph Coale.

Mr. Taylor pounded the table for order, and called for nominations. D. N. Kirby nominated Nathan Frank, and Stewart Stickney nominated John F. Lee. Both got a loud vote, and the Chair declared Mr. Lee elected.

There were loud cheers and cries of "Speech!" as the Warwick of the Solar Walk Democracy took up the gavel.

"In opening this gathering," said the new Chairman, "I believe we should make it understood that we welcome not only bachelors in the strict sense of the word, but likewise widowers and div— any others eligible for marriage, to make common cause with us. Let us have the understanding that, in our discussion and in our official acts, the term 'bachelor' will include these others. If there is no objection, I will declare this to be the sense of the meeting."

"No Wedding Bells for Me."

There was no objection, and a number of men who had been occupying inconspicuous seats on the floor began to move toward the stage and find chairs there. Among these were noticed Breckinridge Jones, L. D. Dozier and Gen. John W. Noble.

Harry M. Coudrey was the author of the first motion. "I move," he said, "that a committee be appointed to devise a plan of insurance. Members can be tested mentally and phrenologically to determine their susceptibility and the premium they should pay. The benefits will then be paid if, in spite of sincere efforts, they are captured and wedded."

Hamilton A. Forman rose to object. "The insurance principle may be a good one," he argued, "but to apply it in the way Mr. Coudrey suggests would merely be to place a premium on marriage. If there is to be insurance, it should be against breach of promise suits."

"What Mr. Forman has just said," Henry Garneau interposed, has suggested to me that a Legal Aid Committee might be preferable to a plan of money insurance. I move that such a committee be named."

Names Two Committees.

The chair put the motions, one at a time, and both were carried. He named Mr. Coudrey as chairman of the Insurance Committee, with Gardner McKnight, Dr. M. B. Clopton, Mark Ewing and Joseph Clarke as his associates. On the Legal Aid Committee, with Mr. Garneau as chairman, he named Henry T. Kent, Robert MacLaran, Lee Hagerman, Clarence T. Case and George W. Wadlow.

Stephen A. Gore, who has been best man at more weddings than any other St. Louis bachelor, addressed the chair. "I haven't any motion to make," he said, "but I want to advise everyone here to accept all the wedding invitations he gets this year, and not to pass up a chance to take dinner with a newly married couple. Be a best man whenever you're asked to. In that way you will become immune. Look at me. I'm here to help others, not because I'm afraid for myself."

"Mr. Gore has struck the right chord," said Alfred G. Robyn. "Be a ladies' man, and you have a chance to escape being a lady's man."

Theo C. Link rose to a point of order. There was nothing before the house, he said.

"I will put something before the house," said William Marion Reedy. "This plague of leap year, that has forced us to meet for mutual protection, is all a matter of tradition. You can't abolish a tradition all at once, and probably you can't get the women folks out of the idea that they have a right to propose in leap year. But we can abolish the men's part of it. For instance, the tradition that a man who rejects a leap-year proposal must give the proponent—I get the word from my friend Hubbard—a silk dress. Now, Mr. Chairman, silk dresses have lately become more costly. Doubtless this is in anticipation of the open season for man hunting.

"I move that it be the sense of this gathering that no silk dress or other valuable thing be given by any man here present to any woman under such circumstances, but that the standard gift in acknowledgement of leap-year proposals be one lemon."

As the last word was uttered, there was tremendous applause. Chairman Lackland, Charles Lemp, Theophile Papin and P. J. O'Fallon clamored for recognition, that they might second the motion. It was passed with a clamor that made the dishes rattle in the restaurant across the street.

Enthusiastic Meeting in New Coliseum Breaks Up When Judge Pollard Introduces His Anti-Matrimony Pledge.

On motion of Thomas Ward McManus, a press committee was appointed, consisting of William J. Thornton, chairman; Richard J. Collins, Richard D. Walsh, Joseph W. Miller Jr., Myron Townsend and Stephen A. Martin.

Billy Culp then moved that a committee on permanent organization and defense be appointed, with subcommittees on debutantes, widows and divorcees. There being no objections, the chair appointed Mr. Culp chairman of such a committee, with instructions to divide up its membership into the subcommittees he had suggested, using his knowledge of individuals in determining where each could be most effective.

Those named as members of the Defense Committee were Lewis T. Tune, Jack Kearney, Joe O'Neil, Tom Collins, Bert Farrar, Herbert M. Morgan, Arthur Stickney, William H. Nolker, Edwin A. Lemp, Charles Reber, W. S. Pope Jr., Edgar Rozier, Thomas C. Rutledge, Griswold Smith, Al Kennedy, Jack Le Page and Connie O'Brien.

In a remote corner of the hall Judge Jeff Pollard had been laboring with pencil and paper. He finished his work as the committee was read, and, arm-in-arm with his bosom friend, Mortimer Levy, walked to the stage.

Pollard's Pledge.

"Mr. Chairman," arose the Pollard voice, "I have here the draft of a pledge which, if signed and observed by every man here, will keep us all from the fate we are striving to escape. I will read it.

The clatter of outgoing feet drowned the Pollard voice. As the speaker looked about he saw that only the courteous chairman remained on the stage. There was a crush at each of the exits.

FUNDS FOR STATE INSTITUTIONS WILL BE PARED

Deficit in Treasury May Cut $800,000 From Appropriations.

State institutions for education and charity will have to get along this year with a total of almost $800,000 less than the Legislature appropriated for them in order to keep within the resources of the State Treasury.

With the liberality of the last Legislature at one end, and the loss of State revenues, caused by the city "lid" and rural local option, at the other end, Auditor Wilder has given up hoping to make ends meet. They seem at present to be more than $1,000,000 apart. He still hopes that a deficit in the Treasury will be avoided, through a measure which he and Gov. Folk took at the time the appropriations were made.

The Auditor told the Governor, when the last Legislature was making up its appropriation budget, that the appropriations were bigger than the State could pay. Both Governor and Auditor notified the Legislature of the state of affairs, but the appropriations were not cut.

When the appropriation bills went to the Governor to be signed, the Governor made out a schedule of amounts which, he believed, could, if absolutely necessary, be cut from the allowance for each institution. The largest cuts were made in cases where new buildings or extensive improvements had been included in the estimates.

He then notified the heads of the institutions that, unless they would promise in writing to do without these sums if necessary, he would not sign their bills. All gave the desired assurance in writing, and the bills were signed.

The supply of funds, though there was a falling off of liquor receipts, showed a slight increase over the former year. But there was no money to pay the big appropriations, and the institutions will be so notified. The promises made by their heads, the Auditor says, are not legally binding, and he would have to certify the full appropriation to any institution which might demand it. But he does not expect any of them to go back on their written promises.

Besides the nearly $800,000 which will be saved in this way, it will be necessary to make a heavy cut in the road-building appropriations. For the roads $800,000 was appropriated, not to be paid unless the money was in the Treasury.

BURNING MONEY AMERICAN FAULT, SAYS MR. FISH

Declares That Economy Can Only Be Taught by Adversity's Hard Knock.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Extravagance on the part of the whole nation and failure to punish or remove from their places of the men who have been shown to be offenders of the laws are two of the causes for the recent panic given by Stuyvesant Fish in the annual financial review published by the Evening Post, which also gives interesting predictions by men of great prominence in business and financial matters as to the outlook for 1908. Mr. Fish says:

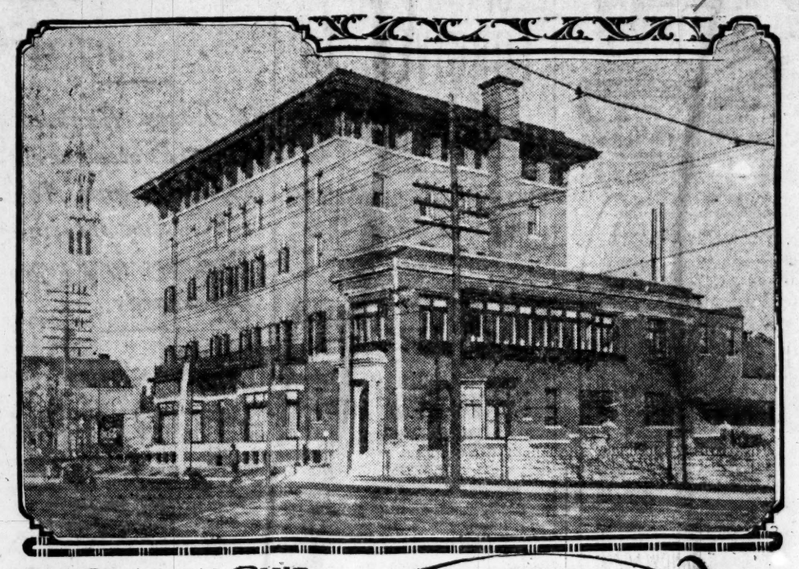

"When our 85,000,000 people do economize and really save something daily, the figures will roll up with amazing rapidity, for if each of them should save on an average so small a sam as 5 cents a day, it will aggregate $1,551,250,000 in a year."

"The guilty parties show no signs of repentance, much less of making restitution. Nor have the chief offenders resigned or been removed from the positions of trust and confidence which they have so greatly and frequently abused to their own profit and to the loss of their stockholders.

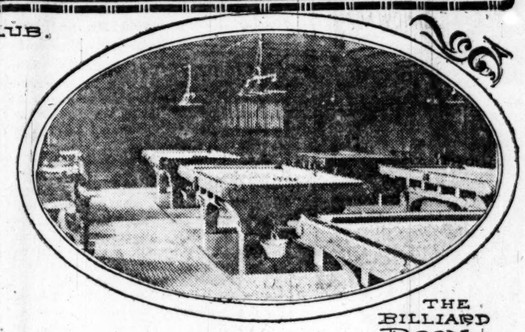

Tracing the causes of the panic Mr. Fish says that whenever State or Federal inquiries have been made in insurance, railroads or local traction matters, corruption has been unearthed and five or six well-known names have always cropped up. He adds:

"At the risk of seeming pessimistic, I cannot help thinking that as the prime cause of our present troubles has not been removed, we must undergo a period of depression and curtailment in business and again learn in the hard school of adversity the lesson of economy.

FEWER LYNCHINGS AND MORE SUICIDES WERE RECORDED PAST YEAR

Sixty-Three Were Victims of Mob Law, Mississippi Leading With Thirteen.

CHICAGO, Jan. 1.—Lynching is decreasing and suicide is growing in the United States. The record of lynchings for 1907 contains the smallest number in the last 20 years. The total is but 63, as compared with 69 in 1906.

The following table shows the decrease for the years:

Year.	Number.	Year.	Number.
1897	166	1898	127
1899	107	1900	115
1901	135	1902	96
1903	104	1904	87
1905	66	1906	69
1907	63

The number of lynchings in the various states and territories is as follows: Alabama 11, Arkansas 3, Georgia 9, Iowa 1, Kentucky 1, Louisiana 11, Maryland 2, Mississippi 13, Nebraska 1, South Carolina 2, Tennessee 3, Texas 4, Indian Territory 1, Oklahoma 2—or South 61, North 2. Of the total number, 60 were negroes and 3 whites, 60 males and 3 females.

The crimes alleged were as follows: Murder 18, rape 12, attempted rape 11, murderous assault 7, race riot 7, burglary 3, complicity in murder 2, rape and murder 1, insults to women 1, theft 1.

Suicides continue to increase, as they have done for several years past, and also continue in excess of other forms of violent death. The number for 1907 is 10,782 as reported in the public press.

The following table shows the steady increase of self-murder during the last nine years:

Year.	Number.
1901	7,245	1902	8,240
1903	8,597	1904	9,240
1905	9,982	1906	10,125

VOLUME OF BUSINESS IN 1907 BREAKS ALL RECORDS

Annual Report of George H. Morgan to St. Louis Merchants' Exchange Shows Big Advance Despite Depression of Last 3 Months.

Despite the financial depression which checked trade in the last three months, the volume of business done in St. Louis in the last year was greater than in any similar period of the city's history, according to the annual report of George H. Morgan, secretary of the Merchants' Exchange.

The net increase in all lines of commercial and manufacturing endeavor was from 5 to 10 per cent.

During the year new capital to the amount of $30,560,695 was invested in St. Louis enterprises.

The number of new factories started was 164, with $8,396,600 capital. Established manufacturing concerns increased their capital $3,380,090. The capital invested in new wholesale mercantile houses amounted to $5,540,600, and the old ones increased $7,475,000. The capital represented by 1363 new retail houses was $2,288,070. In other lines of business the increase in capital was $3,482,425.

In the volume of bank clearings all St. Louis records were broken with a total of $3,170,000,000, compared with the previous high record of $2,972,653,307 in 1906.

During the year the St. Louis Postoffice handled 28,000 tons of mail, with receipts of $4.....000, against last year's total of 25,000 tons, with receipts of $3,-702,391.

A record also was broken in the volume of tonnage shipped into and out of St. Louis by rail and river. In 1907 there were 48,627,000 tons, against 45,-381,478 tons last year.

The St. Louis receipts of wheat, corn, oats and rye for the year just closed were 85,000,000 bushels, compared with 80,000,000 bushels in 1906.

The receipts of livestock for the year were 1,318,252 cattle, 2,555,054 hogs, 6...-495 sheep and 123,400 horses and mules.

QUICKER TRIALS HAVE CUT DOWN THE NUMBER OF JAIL PRISONERS

Cells Now Hold 161 While in Former Years 300 Were Crowded in Same Space.

The number of prisoners in the City Jail has been brought down to 161. In former years as many as 300 were crowded into the Jail at this season of the year.

This has resulted in making the lot of the prisoners decidedly more pleasant. There are 150 cells in the prison and as many of the prisoners prefer to share a cell with one another the quarters are not crowded.

Before the third criminal division of the Circuit Court was established cases piled up so heavily on the dockets of the two other courts that an accused man sometimes remained in custody a year before he was brought to trial. As the Jail furnishings and appointments are ancient, as is everything else in the old Four Courts Building, this resulted in much hardship both to criminals and men accused.

Complaint after complaint was made to the Circuit Attorney's office that prisoners who stood a good chance of acquittal were compelled to submit to the inconveniences of the Jail life for many months. As a result all the assistant circuit attorneys are under instructions to bring the cases assigned to them to trial as soon as possible. And Jailer Wolf reports that there is no prisoner in his charge now who has been waiting for trial longer than three months.

HITCHCOCK AND CAPERS GET INTO TAFT BANDWAGON

They Are Expected to Turn Over Southern Delegates to Ohioan.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—Two of the vacant seats on the Taft bandwagon were filled today when Frank Hitchcock and John Capers climbed in. Mr. Hitchcock is First Assistant Postmaster General and Mr. Capers is Commissioner of Internal Revenue. Both are distinguished, Hitchcock by having gathered together the Federal office holders of the South in the interest of President Roosevelt ostensibly and Secretary Cortelyou really; Mr. Capers by the fact that he, as a Southern Republican leader, refused to believe the President had issued a letter to Federal office holders calling them off the third term scent, until the President showed it to him.

Hitchcock and Capers held a conference and decided to get on the Taft wagon. Mr. Hitchcock will be manager for the South and will deliver the delegates he corralled for Cortelyou to Taft. Mr. Capers will be his able assistant, and will hereby hold his present job as Commissioner.

How to Heal a Bad Sore

That decayed flesh and not diseased blood is the cause of a sore not healing is clearly shown by the quickness with which any flesh sore heals when kept wet with X-Zalia. This liquid, which is sold by druggists and put up by the X-Zalia Corp'n, Boston, acts directly on the flesh, taking out all the soreness and causing healthy flesh to grow over the sore.

"YE OLD FOLKS'" CONCERT WILL BE A MUSICAL TREAT

Large Attendance Is Expected at Children's Hospital Benefit.

"Ye Old Folks'" concert, to be given at the Odeon Friday evening for the benefit of the St. Louis Children's Free Hospital, makes its appeal not only in behalf of one of the worthiest charities, but as offering full value in the line of enjoyable music.

The program to be offered is rich with good song numbers and the singers taking part are well known locally for work of a high order of merit. There is quaintness and charm attaching to the performance, emphasized by the costuming of the typical characters of auld lang syne, which makes an especial appeal, and the dramatic aspect of the offering promises to be entertaining to a peculiar degree. Socially, the event will be one of the most memorable of the season.

Not only the lower part of the house, but the upper as well, which affords as satisfying a view and from which the music can be heard to equal advantage, should be crowded for the occasion. The ladies and gentlemen interested in the concert are working to make it one of the biggest successes of the year, and the cause for which it is given, together with the quality of the entertainment, should insure this result.

IRISH HOME RULE ADVOCATE DIES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1. — Morgan O'Donoghue, Irish patriot, yeoman, editor and advocate of Irish home rule, died here, aged 78 years. He was a personal friend of Parnell and the early leaders of the Irish movement for better conditions, as well as Dillon, and the other later-day champions of the cause. He was a great admirer of the republican form of the United States Government, and the freedom enjoyed by American citizens, which had much to do with his location here.

GRAND-LEADER

Stix, Baer & Fuller Dry Goods Co

We Wish You A Happy New Year

¶ We welcome the opportunity that is presented to us at the beginning of the New Year to thank you for the liberal patronage that has been accorded this store.

¶ That the patronage has been fully merited, we are fully confident; at least we have tried to be deserving of it, and have served you conscientiously. Nevertheless, it is exceedingly gratifying to note that the vast majority of the public is able to fully appreciate the advantages of this store.

¶ When the present Grand-Leader was being planned many a level-headed business man felt that we were going a little bit too far for St. Louis, and some stated that this institution was ten years ahead of the city.

¶ Of course we felt differently; otherwise this establishment would never have been built, and now, after a period of a year and four months, we are pleased to report that the progress made has been greater than we anticipated—and the size of this establishment indicates our expectations were indeed great.

¶ During the holiday rush the capacity of this great store was taxed to its utmost, and on one day more than 104,000 people entered the store, showing conclusively that this is the shopping center of St. Louis.

¶ This great patronage is surely an expression of confidence in our merchandise and methods, and we regard that confidence as our most valuable asset. We are sure that the faith in this establishment is not misplaced, for we know that the absolute satisfaction of our patrons is our greatest concern, and the cause of our greatest endeavors.

Sincerely yours,

Stix, Baer & Fuller Dry Goods Co.

"First in Everything"

Why?

PAVING GRAFT AT OUR DOORS.

Graft is brought home painfully to the citizen when he is made to feel it in his pocketbook. St. Louis is likely to form a second energetic public opinion on the subject when the property holders, big and little, realize that they have lately been robbed of nearly a million dollars through special tax bills for street improvements.

Through the favor of public officials the bitulithic paving concern has been permitted to mulct householders and realty owners for about 40 per cent profit on $2,000,000 of contracts. Here is a form of robbery that gives the robber a first lien on property, a power literally to dispossess home-owners if they do not stand and deliver.

Surely the people robbed thus at their very thresholds should have a lively interest in pursuing the inquiry—Is the robbery punishable? Was there a division of spoils with any of the public officials who permitted it and made it possible by their overweening preference?

HAPPY NEW YEAR FOR BUSINESS.

"Happy New Year" has more meaning this year than ordinarily.

There has been a tacit understanding that business will be better soon after the first of the year. Jan. 1 has been regarded hopefully by many people as the date from which decided improvement would become manifest.

This the bankers of the country should interpret as a somewhat definite and a highly significant expression of popular confidence—exceptional on the very heels of a bank panic.

The confidence of the people and of business which has never been disastrously impaired, but which, however, has somewhat definitely set a date and a limit to its expectations, ought not to be disappointed. Shrewd bankers must realize that they cannot afford to let confidence go by default when so unmistakably asserted.

If they would take advantage of "the psychological moment," now is plainly the time for banks everywhere to completely resume the cash basis, under a condition of confidence guaranteeing protection and offering the most powerful inducement.

DEMOCRACY FOR DEMOCRATS.

Mr. Stapel's letter announcing his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Missouri is remarkable for one thing.

It avows Democratic principles and a purpose to stand or fall thereon.

Nearly all Democratic pronouncements nowadays appear to be addressed to small factions and coteries having fads or freakish ideas to advance and promising to deliver a few votes therefor at election time.

Few people talk to the Democrats. Even their greatest leaders fire over their heads at Populists and Socialists. Democratic principles are shelved and shopworn and novelties of every description are used in their places.

There are a good many Democrats in the United States and it would seem that a few ambitious men might find profit in addressing them in a language which they can understand.

MR. TAFT'S APOLOGY.

Heralded as one in which he would talk for himself, Mr. Taft's principal Boston speech was an apology for others.

It will hardly be claimed by anybody that the Secretary of War did himself justice in this utterance. His description of financial and business conditions was not lucid and his explanation of the causes of the panic left much to be desired.

Mr. Taft is big enough and able enough to run for President on his own merits. He has had a splendid career. He is yet to be charged with his first failure. It is indeed a pity that he does not speak for himself.

The Boston apology betrays symptoms of overloading on the part of the man who made it. Is he to be handicapped thus to the end?

One bad habit that might as well end with the new year is the learned discussion of defects in naval construction by landlubbers in the Mississippi Valley.

After Raisuli, the Moroccan bandit, gets through with Sir Harry McLean he ought to come to St. Louis and try the street-paving business.

An exploding bomb in the Stock Exchange at Rome is tame beside some of the things that have dropped in Wall street now and then.

This is the year that the night-blooming Fairbanks boom is expected to flower.

ONE JUDGE ON ANOTHER.

In the course of Judge Brumback's remarks at the conference of circuit and appellate judges he referred to Judge Wallace of Kansas City as follows:

We have today in our county a Judge of Criminal Causes, a man of the highest personal character, who is using his office to prosecute persons accused of misdemeanors. He has chosen a grand jury which, in his opinion, entertains views regarding certain criminal laws he is attempting to enforce, which meet his own, and he is using the press and the pulpit in an effort to secure the enforcement of that part of the criminal laws. He has obtained more than 1000 informations for misdemeanors, I am told, for infractions of those laws. Now, this course may be very well if his views on this question are the correct views, but suppose they are not correct?

Neither the character nor the abilities of Judge Wallace are in question in the matter of his attempt to prevent labor, amusement and merchandising on Sunday. The point is whether he is acting in harmony with law and if so whether the laws which he is enforcing are wise and adapted to existing conditions.

Men of personal character as high and with motives as good as may be claimed for Judge Wallace are of opinion that he is proceeding lawlessly; that his sectarian grand juries are not properly drawn; that the laws which he is making effective are not actually in force, being mere enabling acts, and that on appeal and review practically all that he has done will be reversed.

It is to be noted that the Police Commissioners of Kansas City have not joined in Judge Wallace's religious movement against harmless diversions on Sunday, and it is understood that Gov. Folk is responsible for the position they have assumed. When a Folk hesitates it must be that a Wallace is acting with more zeal than discretion.

The Kansas City crusade is no dramshop case. It is an attempt in the name of God and religion—sectarian religion, in fact—to regulate the goings and comings, the diversions, the tastes and the habits of the people in matters affecting their highest freedom, convenience and pleasure. It is an effort by one magistrate holding extreme religious views on Sunday observance to force everybody within his jurisdiction to move in the same path that he pursues.

It is Judge Wallace's high character as a man which makes his misuse of the judicial office doubly offensive and dangerous. If he were a man of low character and unworthy motives he would accomplish little with all his power. There is the same obligation on the people, however, to stop a good man who is in the wrong as there is to resist the evil courses of a bad man.

Missouri is not destitute of justice, of good sense or of independence, and to these appeal must be made against the methods and assumptions of a man who is straining the laws to sustain a narrow sectarian bias. If Wallace is to succeed in his crotchet some other judge holding peculiar views in another direction may presently enter the lists. If the law is the perfection of reason, it cannot long be employed to sustain the wildest absurdities of unreason.

Judge Wallace is honest indeed, but he is misguided. He would not have gone far in the direction which he is now pursuing if he had not been honest. When he meets his overthrow, as he certainly will presently, it will not be his character—it will be his law which will be impugned. The weight of authority, legal and popular, in this State is against him.

Boston is notoriously a place of superior intellectuality, but was it necessary to freeze William H. Taft to the marrow when he first appeared there as a candidate?

Street-paving graft is highway robbery, of course.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

The Sabbath.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In your esteemed issue of the 23rd inst., you quote Judge Williams of Kansas City as saying: "The Sabbath was ordained before man had fallen. By Divine example the Almighty ordained it (the Sabbath) by resting from work on the seventh day." Will some profound theologian explain why, if the Almighty instituted the seventh day of the week as a Sabbath, the Sabbatarians fly in the face of the Almighty by insisting that Sunday, the first day of the week is the Sabbath of the Bible? The Patriarchs knew nothing about a Sabbath and the first time this blessed day is mentioned was by Moses when he led the children of Israel around the wilderness until he died. Isaiah repudiated the Sabbath, and Christ and His Apostles broke it time and again. And while the Catholic Church ordained Sunday a holy day, the Mother Church does not claim that it is binding on non-Catholics. In conclusion permit me to say that I think Judge Wallace sincere in his inforcement of all the laws of our State, and thus he stands out in bold relief to Gov. Folk, who prates that he is sworn to enforce all the laws of our commonwealth, but discriminates and enforces such laws as suit his excellency's whims.

COMMON SENSE.

The Cost of Prohibition.

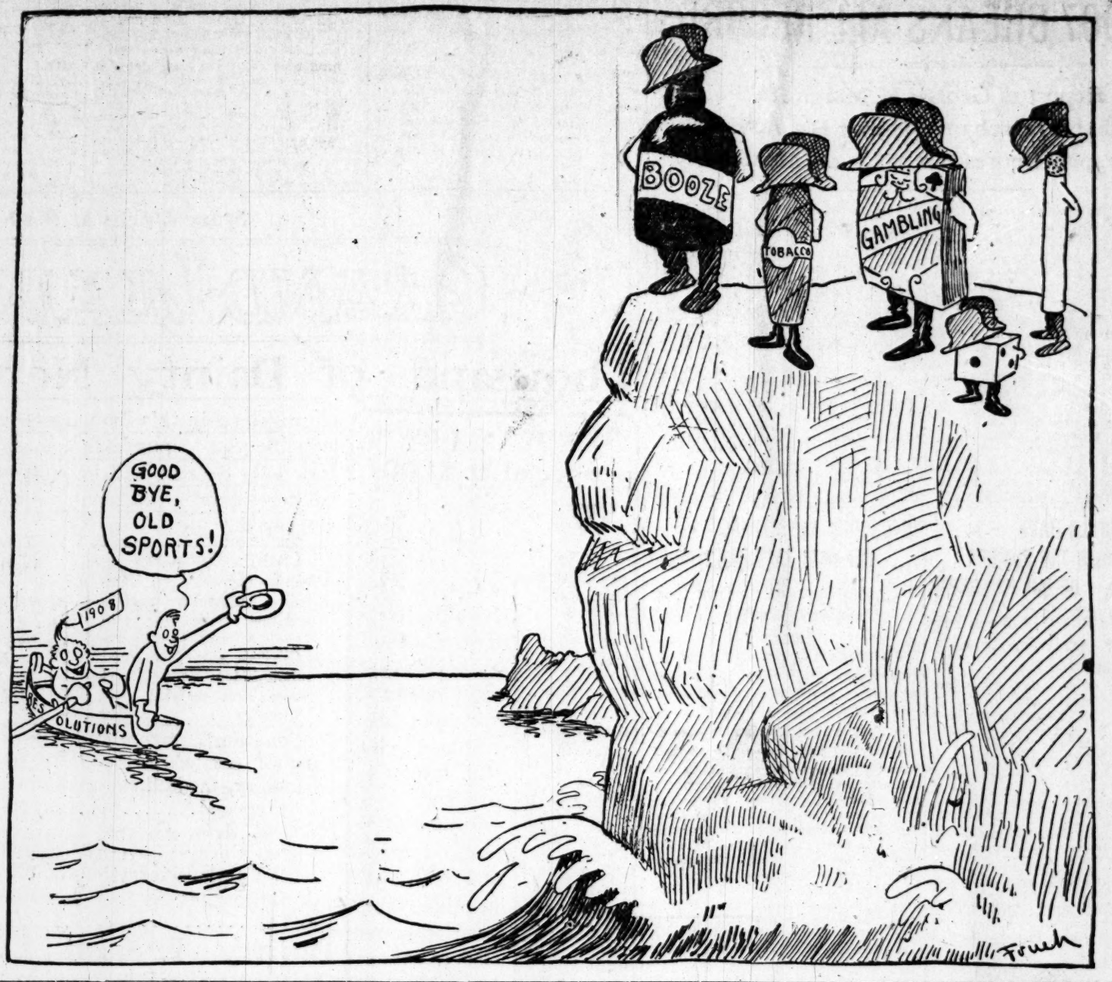

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The argument on the subject of "The Cost of Prohibition in Missouri" is founded upon the sordid basis of the dollar, and, upon the face of it, seems a formidable objection to the adoption of laws prohibitory of the liquor traffic. Yet, even upon the contemptible plea of material gain, it is easy to show that the balance will be largely on the side of prohibition—providing that it really prohibits. In the first place, the millions of capital need not be lost for there are thousands of avenues in which it could be employed in developing the natural resources of our great State.

The $15,000,000 worth of factories would still exist and might be largely employed in the production of real wealth. The 10,000 employes, instead of expending worse than wasted efforts and energies, would be free to engage in ready productive industry and add to, instead of destroying the real wealth of the world while the revenues derived from the traffic will be more than offset by the reduced cost of policing and regulating the same. The $10,000,000 worth of good grain that is destroyed every year will be added to the food supply of the world and go to feed the famished children of drunken fathers. It is a queer calculation in economics that figures this as a loss. Finally. The many millions spent in liquor drinking and concomitant evils with all the horrors of poverty, sorrow and suffering as results, will be spent for food, clothing and shelter, thus stimulateing productive industry in the necessaries of life and leaving a comfortable balance on the right side of the ledger. So much for the dollar argument. Morally, the reduction in vice, crime, sorrow and suffering will outweigh all the mines of earth. No amount of dollars can balance a brokenhearted wife or hungry child.

NEW YEAR'S EVE.

'Twas the night before New Year, and all through the house
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse;
But what though the clock on the stairs ticked away,
And the moon had succeeded the bright orb of day,
The dear ones at home only dozed now and then,
For father was out for the last time again.

LOOKING BOTH WAYS.

THE honors for 1907 easily rest with the Anti-Saloon League. Mr. Rockefeller had a fine year—$29,500,000. Mr. Roosevelt knocked out one trust—the one on the coins. Oklahoma came into the Union on the water wagon. Reformed life insurance sighed for the good old days. King Leopold continued the villain of Europe, and Harriman of America. Elinor Glyn's "Three Weeks" is the most-talked-of book. She ought to get 90 days. Mr. Morgan reappeared upon earth, but found only a few things he overlooked the first time. Japan took off her mask and the Korean Emperor's crown. A German won the international balloon duel, with a French second. The theater had a good year, Mrs. Nation having a run of 10 nights in a barroom. Music had a bad year, George Cohan producing two of his pieces this time.

Senator Jeff Davis appeared at Washington and confirmed the amusing reports. The French continued the war in Morocco, but the Moors have been wild, invariably rising out of range. The President came down the river and was entertained by the fashionables of St. Louis, returning to Washington crying louder than ever for deep water and more babies. Both the trans-Atlantic records were broken—the time for going across, and the number that came home busted. Our Atlantic fleet sailed for Frisco, and the bad Japanese boys in the public schools sailed the same day for Yokahama. Gains were reported from Panama. The fall elections did not much interest the big political parties, but bulletins were posted more or less breathlessly at the breweries and distilleries. Roosevelt withdrew, and Hughes' whiskers moved into second place, with Hughes third, and Uncle Joe Cannon a close ninth. The earnest prayer of the Democrats for a Republican panic similar to the Democratic panic of '93 was completely answered. More Democrats got the Bryan habit, the Peace Conference blew again, Harry Orchard's claim to have caused the Frisco earthquake was disallowed, Chancellor Day finally got his shirt off permanently, and Walter Wellman established a new farthest south for North Pole work. Kipling won the Nobel prize, but he lost the bet that the litterateurs would be enthusiastic about it. The Czar also canned the second Duma, he has consented to permit the election of a third one, and most of the members of the first Duma have been caught. All in all, it was a year that Coin Harvey, Nelson A. Miles, Mary McLane et al. enjoyed about as much as the living.

The future is obscured by a fog. About the only distinct vision is that of Bryan. It will be Leap Year—that is, when all that a man hath becomes divisible by two. Congress will rearrange our finance until nobody can get any, the prohibition wave will come North with the robins in spring, tra-la, and a great deal of national importance will happen that is foreseen at present only by Richard P. Hobson, George Harvey, Tom Lawson, the Great Hermann III, and a few others of extraordinary prescience.

ALCOHOL IN FRANCE.

From the Hospital.

Alcoholism in France is held to be one of the most terrible scourges of the present day, and is also apparently one of the chief causes of death. Two years ago the Academie de Medecine invited members of the medical societies to collect statistics of all deaths in their wards.

M. Fernet has communicated a summary of these statistics and finds that during the last 15 months among a total of over 1500 deaths occurring in 11 different hospitals and asylums alcohol played a part in the cause of death in one-third of the cases. It was the principal cause in one-tenth of the deaths, and it was the accessory cause in more than two-tenths. Alcohol showed a still greater influence on mortality in asylums than in the general hospitals.

At the Asile Saint Anne 30 out of consecutive deaths were among alcoholics. In asylums generally alcohol was the cause of disease and death in nearly half the male cases and in one-sixth of the female cases.

MARSE HENRY SHOUTS.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

It goes without saying that the saloons should be divorced from politics. As long as perfidy and pharisaism can derive a profit and exploit themselves by agitation we may expect agitation; but even the rankest perfidy and pharisaism will become harmless when common sense and common honesty, reason and truth are left free to combat them. It is only when conviction becomes diseased by intolerance, and courage is struck dumb by proscription, that states and cities need to be afraid. In Louisville, let us believe, we shall always have a wise pulpit and a free press.

WITH PROHIBITION IMMINENT.

From the Charleston News and Courier.

If you were on an island in the middle of the Savannah River with a Georgian on the night of Dec. 31, and the hour was 11:59, and the Georgia man was going home, and your flask contained but a single drink, what would you do about it?

LAND PROBLEM AND CALCULUS.

novel solution of the problem presented by a surveyor to read-the Post-Dispatch. The surveyor was charged to so divide a 00 feet long on one side, 1200 feet long on the other, 400 feet d 500 feet at the rear into two equal halves by a line paralel d 1200 foot lines. The question he submitted was: How much the owner of each half have?

$OC = AF = 400$ ft.
$AO = 1200$
$DC = 1500$
$AD = 500$
$DF = 300$
$\tan DAF = \frac{DF}{AF} = \frac{300}{400} = \frac{3}{4}$
$OB = k$

Required the distance OB or K such that area AOBE shall equal ½ AOCD.

Let us first reduce the scale by dividing by 100. Our answer must now multiplied by 100. Making the area a function of X and Y we find by integral calculus that

$$AOCD = \int_0^x y\,dx \quad \text{and} \quad AOBE = \int_0^k y\,dx$$

K is some value of X to be determined.

xpressing y in terms of x
$y = AO + x \tan DAF = 12 + \frac{3x}{4}$, complete solution is:

$$12x + \frac{3x^2}{8}\Big]_0^k = \frac{1}{2}\left[12x + \frac{3x^2}{8}\right]_0^4$$

$$k^2 + 32k = 72$$

$$k = \sqrt{328} - 16$$

$$OB = 100k = 100\sqrt{328} - 1600$$

being determined, the other values readily follow, and for accuracy only ad on the square root of 328, which I leave to the reader.

THE NEWLYWEDS; THEIR BABY.

"GOOD TEETH, GOOD HEALTH."

By Richard Grady, M. D., D. D. S., Co-Editor American Journal of Dental Science; Dentist U. S. Naval Academy.

IN MY office there is a motto, "Good Teeth, Good Health." In many cases it has made a deep impression upon the mind of the patient, whose eye has caught the inscription as he entered the room, and he has been prompted to read the lines attached to it:

Without good teeth there cannot be thorough mastication.
Without thorough mastication there cannot be perfect digestion.
Without perfect digestion there cannot be proper assimilation.
Without proper assimilation there cannot be nutrition.
Without nutrition there cannot be health.
Without health what is life?
Hence the paramount importance of the teeth.

We want periodical and systematic examinations of the teeth of children in the primary and grammar schools, whose ages range from 6 to 15 years, having in view the prevention of their destruction. It is not proposed that the examination be made by or under the school authorities, but by such adjustment with them as shall not interfere with school work or add a burden upon teachers. Dentists, who are members of dental societies and members of the graduating classes of dental schools, recommended by the deans, could be voluntary inspectors. Their reports (charts) should be given to pupils with instructions to hand them to parents or guardians. The form might include the words, signed by the teacher: "Your child or ward has been examined by the visiting dentist, and you are respectfully advised to have his mouth and teeth attended to."

Take it all in all, care of the teeth pays in comfort, in beauty, in the conservation of health from youth to old age. "Better take pains than to have pains take you."

According to Dr. Charles E. Bentley of Chicago, "In Berlin, Wurzburg, Cologne and Strasburg, Germany; in Salford and Leicester, England; Brussels and Antwerp, Belgium; Bordeaux, France; Tokio, Japan; Copenhagen, Denmark, and Canada, various systems obtain and the results are more than were looked for by their most sanguine promoters. In Toronto, Canada, no child can enter the public school who does not present a certificate to the effect that its teeth have been examined by a dentist. California and St. Louis are wide awake on this subject and are slowly paving the way for its consummation."

NEW STYLE OF BEAUTY.

Paris Salon's Verdict Is That Individuality and Elegance Are the New Standards.

THE reign of the old-time beauty is at an end. New art has brought out a new style of beauty. On the walls of the Paris Salon this year the fact was emphasized that regular features and delicate skin no longer constitute the ideal beauty from an artist's standpoint.

A new era has set in. The new beauty must have intelligence, personality and above all elegance as well as good looks.

The so-called ugly girls need not think they are out of the race, for a little irregularity of feature is desirable nowadays, especially if it indicates character and individuality. But with that character there must be smartness, chic and the grace that is thoroughly feminine.

Nowadays mere plumpness counts for nothing, and the frail, anemic female form is what managers demand and audiences rave over.

The Paris Salon reflects the prevailing types of beauty at its exhibitions, and it was noted that in this year's showing intellectuality and above all, character were the principal notes expressed.

The women noted today for wit and fascination of manner are not beauties according to the rules laid down by our grandfathers, who called for bright eyes and rosy cheeks, red lips and regular features, throats of snow, tiny hands and feet.

The artists of the new school declare that the new beauty, the beauty of character and expression, is the only true beauty, and that mere regularity of feature and fairness of complexion are only fit for Christmas card reproduction. A famous French artist had produced some remarkable portraits of American women in recent seasons, in which he has laid no stress at all upon beauty of face or form, but has in every case brought out some individual peculiarity of type possessed by the sitter.

NEW YEAR RESOLUTIONS.

RESOLVED

That the straight and narrow path is the easiest after all.

That patience brings her perfect work.

Never to woo the god of praise; do nothing for vainglory.

Make every cent count and count every cent.

That it is wiser to count your own blessings than the other fellow's.

To see the brightness of present blessings before they take their flight.

That happiness dwells within us, hence the folly of seeking it elsewhere.

That peaceful solitude brings more satisfaction than doubtful associations.

That society is all right—for the other fellow.

To give your head to the custody of your heart.

That marriage is a commendable and happy burden if you own a span of mules.

A COURSE IN SWEET POTATOES.

Recipes Gathered by a Bride Who Is Living in Georgia.

A YOUNG woman, who has gone to Georgia to live, writes that the South has given her a course in sweet potatoes.

"First of all," she says, "Northerners don't know what a real sweet potato is. Get pumpkin yam and see. New Jersey is the best place for them to come from—for the North." Here are some ways to cook them:

CREOLE BAKE.

Slice several cold baked "sweets" into a buttered dish, dot the first layer thickly with butter and sprinkle (if you can sprinkle anything so thick) with cane syrup or New Orleans molasses, preferably the former. Two or three layers prepared like this and topped off with a sprinkling of sugar and more butter, baked in a slow oven about three-quarters of an hour (the longer the better), will show you what a blessing a sweet tooth can be.

CANDIED YAM.

This is a favorite dish in the South, eaten as a vegetable. The potatoes are boiled, allowed to cool, then cut into halves lengthwise, and stewed for half an hour in a thick syrup until they become gummy. The syrup is made of three parts sugar to one of water, with a little molasses or cane syrup for flavoring. These may be served hot or cold.

The real sweet potato pie combines all the delicacy of custard with a good jam, and why it is not made an item among Northern desserts in winter, when fruit is at a premium and hot things a delight, is a mystery that must go unsolved.

SWEET POTATO PIE.

Boil and mash three medium-sized potatoes, add two eggs, beaten up with one-half a cup of sugar, one-third cup sweet milk, one tablespoon butter, a little salt and plenty of nutmeg sprinkled over the top. Bake in a moderate oven as you would a custard pie, and serve warm.

And here's real Southern cornbread:

Four large cups white cornmeal, one cup buttermilk, one-half teaspoon soda, one-half teaspon sugar, and a little salt.

Form into oval-shaped cake with the hands, brush the tops lightly with butter, and bake a good brown.

Most Northern women do not like Southern cookery at first blush; indeed, one new arrival in the South wrote disgestedly to a friend who had appealed to her for some distinctively Southern recipes: "Just take any old recipe, then eliminate every ingredient that makes it taste good, mix all the others together, and if you can lay hands on it, add a flavoring of rancid bacon or pork fat, and you'll have a distinctively Southern dish."

But that, of course was in a moment of pessimistic homesickness, for that same young woman later relented so far as to collect a few hot bread recipes from her new neighbors, and she reluctantly admitted that they were hard to beat.

Here are three of them:

BUNS (NO. 1.)

One pound butter, one-quarter pound sugar, two pounds flour, six eggs, four tablespoons ground cinnamon. Mix the flour and cinnamon, rub the butter to a cream and mix the flour with it. Beat the eggs and sugar, add them to the other mixture, mixing as little as possible. Drop in spoonfuls on a buttered baking sheet, making rough little cakes. They should be a small distance apart. Bake them till done in a moderate oven.

VIRGINIA BATTER BREAD.

Two eggs, one teaspoon salt, one quart of sour milk, three-quarters teaspoon of soda, one pint cornmeal. Beat the eggs, stir the soda in the milk till it foams, sift the salt with the meal, stir the meal into the milk, adding the eggs. Beat hard for five minutes, pour into a greased china baking dish, and bake in a moderately hot oven till brown.

BREAKS A COLD IN A DAY
Or Cures Any Cough That Is Curable —Prescription of Noted Physician.

Mix one-half ounce of Concentrated oil of pine, with two ounces of glycerine and half a pint of good whiskey. Shake thoroughly and use in doses of a teaspoonful to a tablespoonful every four hours.

A renowned throat and lung specialist declares that the above formula is one of the very best remedies obtainable for an acute cold and that it will strengthen the lungs, relieve coughs and heal the bronchial tubes. Also, that it will cure any lung trouble not too far advanced.

These ingredients are procurable of any good prescription druggist and easily mixed at home and it should take its place as one of the most valuable remedies in the family chest.

Inquiry at one of the leading druggist's elicited the information that Concentrated oil of pine is put up for dispensing only in half ounce vials sealed in tin screw top cases to protect it from heat and light. The imitations should be avoided because owing to their impurities they only produce nausea and are harmful. ad.

THE SILENT BOARDER.

He Discusses Riding on Street Cars Without Paying Fares, Transcribed for the Post-Dispatch

BY W. BOB HOLLAND.

"I DON'T understand this weather," remarked the Shoe Salesman as he tried vainly to remove the outer crust from a petrified prune. "It is"—

"It is indeed," interrupted the Silent Boarder. "It is one of the mysteries of nature, one of the questions that afford much room for debate but which will never be settled. Some scientists hold that the world has slipped a cog and that the calendar is wrong and that instead of doing January bargain shopping this week we should really be recovering from the effects of a Labor Day celebration. Other wise men who have had experience say that the weather is all right and is perfectly seasonable but that it does not seem so because we are getting used to it. They go on the old theory that a married man does not really live longer than a single man—it only seems longer."

"Why, the very idea!" exclaimed the Blonde Stenographer. "I don't"—

"There is also a question about poker playing that has never been solved," continued the Silent Boarder. "It is regarding the comparative enjoyment to be derived from successfully negotiating a bluff or in calling a bluff that some other player tries to put through. Of course it is generally understood that the poker player who is caught bluffing loses his money."

"I don't think that is fair," said the Blonde Stenographer. "Now, when I"—

"So there is a certain amount of enjoyment in making a bluff and getting away with it," continued the Silent Boarder. "The amount of money in the pot that is thus stolen is not all the enjoyment there is—the mere fact of getting something to which you were not entitled adds to the feeling of elation. It is also agreeable to flag the other fellow's bluff and after he has thrown his hand into the discard show him that you called on a pair of tens. But it has never been satisfactorily determined which of these exploits give the more agreeable sensations. When you grow tired of arguing the question you may turn it around and debate on which is the more disagreeable, to have your own bluff called or to call some other fellow's bluff that was not a bluff."

"I should say,' began the Floorwalker, but the Silent Boarder continued:

"There is certainly enjoyment in riding on a trolley car without paying fare. The enjoyment you derive is out of all proportion to the amount you save. A raise of salary of $4 a week will not please the average man any more than saving a nickel to which Capt. McCulloch is fairly entitled. Fortunately the Captain runs so few cars and they are so badly crowded that he thus gives a great deal of enjoyment to St. Louisans. I rarely pay my way coming home on the Olive street cars because I board the car at Twelfth street, getting on at the front end while the conductor is back in the middle of the car using a jimmy to force his way through the packed humanity."

"I am glad you did not say they were packed like sardines in a box," remarked Dr. Chuf, the newest boarder who hates bromides.

"Well, the other day I was going away up north on Grand avenue and I boarded a car on Olive street," continued the Silent Boarder. "The conductor did not call for my fare and I felt elated. Then I suddenly remembered that I might as well have paid because I had to have a transfer to Grand avenue or else pay another fare on that line and my feeling of elation was gone. What did it profit me to dodge the first fare if the second conductor was to get me? Now, I have not been able to decide whether the enjoyment I got out of skipping the first fare was as great as the mental anguish I felt when the second conductor made me dig up before I had been in my seat eight seconds. When I get that problem solved I am going to try to find out why St. Louis butchers will not put the meat of the swine in pork sausage."

East St. Louis News

The people who live on the South Side in East St. Louis gave the firefighters who protect their homes a surprise party in engine house No. 5 Tuesday night, which started at 8:30 o'clock and lasted until 5 o'clock Wednesday morning. There the fire apparatus was pushed aside and an old-fashioned firemen's dance took place. At midnight the ladies took possession of the upstairs room where the firemen sleep and spread tables with the food they had brought, and dancing was resumed after the supper.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

INCREASE IN CAPITALIZATION—& Reis Commission Co., of 801 Luc nue celebrated their second birthday a and increased their capital from $5000 to $10,000. Though but two years old, this concern is now recognized as one of the strongest and most aggressive houses in their line of business in the Middle West.
Stephen M. Wagner, president, has been actively engaged for the past 15 years in selling the jobbing trade in this city.
Gordon L. Reis, secretary and treasurer, the younger member of the company, has been known to the trade here for the last five years. Both men are hustlers from the word go, and that their efforts have been appreciated is shown by the phenomenal growth of their company.
The success of this young firm seems due to the fact that manufacturers of dry goods and kindred lines realize the necessity of carrying stocks in St. Louis for the accommodation of the jobbing and manufacturing trade of this city, and that this can best be done by having a live commission house handle this business for them.

ATTELL A 2 TO 1 CHOICE BEFORE GONG SOUNDS

American Is Hot Favorite Over Owen Moran, Just Before Time for the Battle.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 1.

TTING on the fighters who will meet in the arena at Colma at 2:15 (Pacific time), this afternoon to decide the featherweight championship, went just before the fight to 2 to 1 in of Abe Attell, as against Owen Moran. When betting first l odds were placed at 10 to 8, and it was not thought that ice would drop lower than 10 to 7. Then came the switch to 5, and later to 2 to 1.

has been a long time since a fight on the coast has attracted ch attention as this one. Fight followers from all parts of ate, and even other States, are here to witness the battle, and ks as though a tremendous crowd will be present when the starts the two clever little fellows battling for the title.

Jeffries, who will referee the as visited both the fighters, and a thorough understanding with s to the style of fisticuffs they serve, while clinching and breakesterday he spent a couple of with Attell and went over the ground as was covered during to Moran on Monday. promised that he would not hold at he would break clean when l to do s . Moran has made a e to the same effect.

Both Down to Weight.

rding to latest reports, both the ave come in nicely at the weight ich says he has nothing to desire matter of condition. ier did any work yesterday. Both d about the training quarters dure day. Early today Moran went Colma to occupy a cottage near ena. Attell's quarters are in the neighborhood, close to the arena. oys are confident of their ability out.

n is generally acknowledged to he harder punch, and Attell is d with being by far the cleverer two.

why Moran is conceded to be a r hitter than Attell is not easily stood by those who have followed ecords of both. Moran has won of his fights by knockouts, but Atas beaten much better men than n has ever met, and has finished with a "sleep punch."

Sure to Be Intense.

Englishman has been credited saying that he has not shown elf at his best in this country. her he has or not, makes little ence, for it is certain that the pion will make him extend himself e utmost to keep up with the pace. ell's superior cleverness may carry through. He is one of the few r men in the ring who do not tire long bout. Another thing in favor o American is the fact that he strike a damaging blow with either and really has a knockout on tap it is needed.

to the merits of the men, there is but a single line that brings them together in a manner sufficiently worthy of notice. That lies through the fights both have had with Frankie Neil.

Moran Was Strong.

Moran is just through whipping Neil. The beating he administered to the former bantamweight champion and conqueror of Harry Forbes and other good scrappers is one that will be remembered. After punishing Neil sadly for ten rounds, Moran stepped in and knocked him out, showing superiority in speed, accurate hitting, science, force and generalship—about all the gamut of talents with which a fighter should be endowed. This, too, after the Frisco fight public and experts had refused to see him in the light of a possible victor, prior to the fight.

Attell also fought Neil. If he did his best on that occasion he certainly is entitled to expect to squeeze out of a tight corner if he whips Moran. For his showing against the rugged little coast fighter was nothing like Moran's. It lacked the battleship order and consisted of the tap-and-get-away, point-scoring style. Abe kept this up, and, of course, earned a decision. He tore and cut the countenance of Mr. Neil, but he did not prevent his boring in and fighting hard, whereas Moran thudded the ribs and head of his opponent in grewsome manner at times.

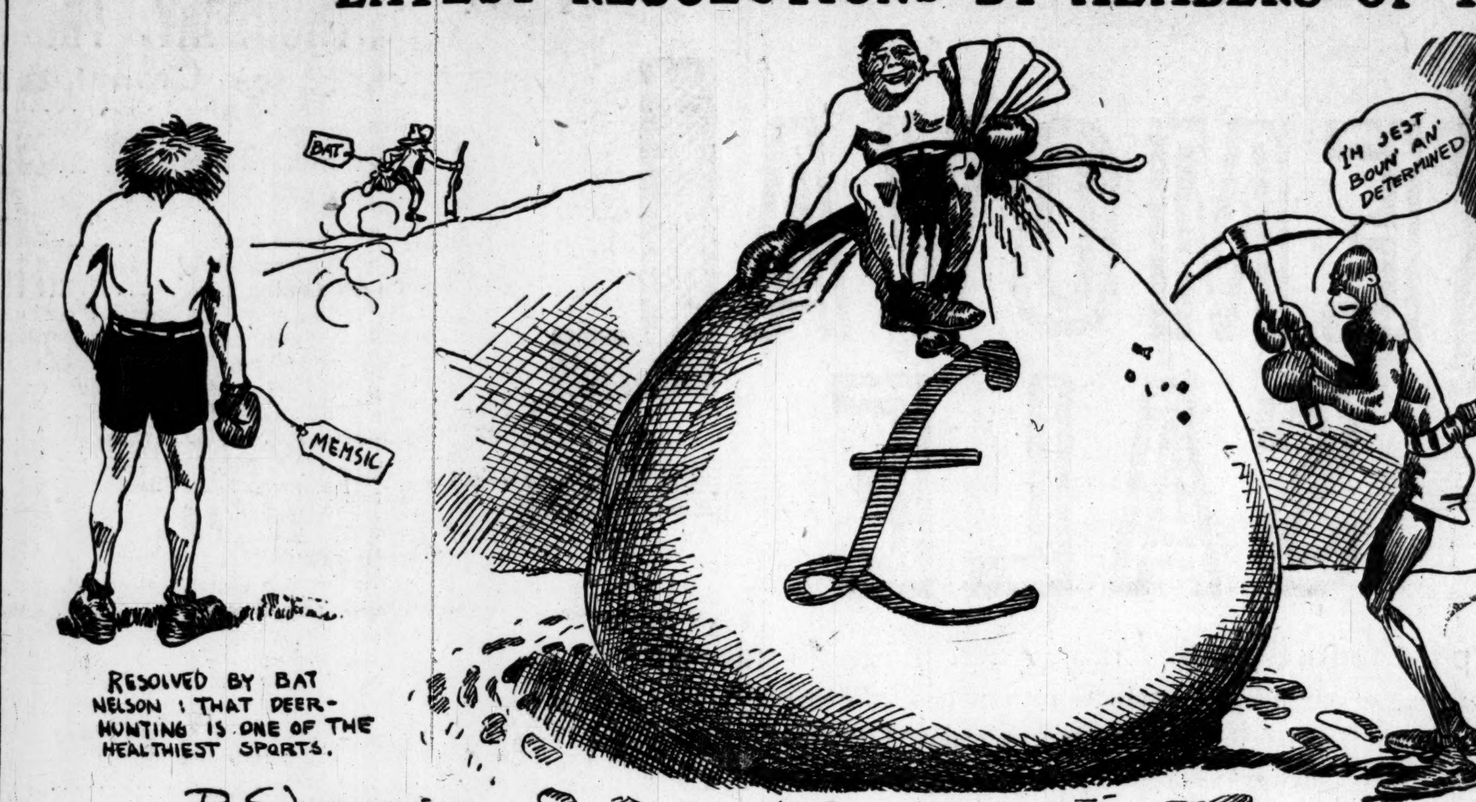

Attell's Friends Firm.

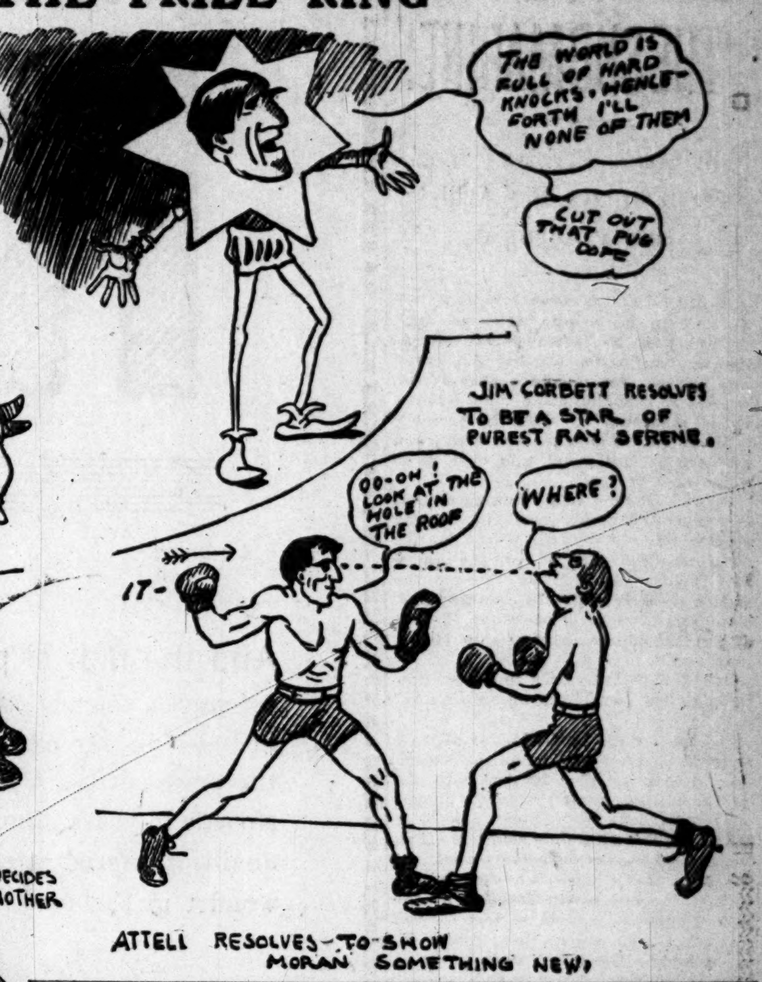

Moran seems to have the stamina and enough skill to worry Attell, good as the champion is. The latter is so versatile, however, that few, even of Moran's best friends, concede Moran a chance to earn anything like a decisive victory, or, indeed, to get any victory at all. If Attell finds that he is being outslugged, he will slip into his old elusive style, and when Abe doesn't want to be cornered it takes a phantom to outstep him.

Perhaps the most competent testimony to the relative efficiency of the parties to this afternoon's big fight has been given by Frankie Neil, who says:

"All the money I can scrape up goes on Moran. He will win sure, and I know what I am talking about. He will corner this Attell and when he does you can bet that one fight crown will go out of America."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 1.—While the new year here was ushered in with a driving rain storm, the morning broke with signs of clearing, and the hopes of the St. Louis University football players rose, as they prepared to go out and do battle with the Multnomah band of giants in the afternoon.

All Portland was aroused over the prospects of a great game, and long before time for the contest, indications showed that the biggest crowd that ever attended a game in this city, would be present.

Coach Cochems of the Missouri Valley champions, longed for a clear day and a dry field, and then he believed his speed machine would prove to the people of the Pacific its true worth and outclass the heavy club of Portland. On a sloppy and slippery field, he feared his boys would be pushed down as they were one week ago at Spokane under such conditions.

Field of Sawdust.

The management of the game here has taken precautions against the weather and has spread a thick layer of sawdust all over the field, so even should rain fall in the afternoon, the footing cannot be so bad as it was at Spokane.

After four or five days of practice here the St. Louis team is in better shape for a genuine game than it was at Spokane. Cochems will be greatly disappointed if his men do not show the public of the far West how the new game of football should be played.

Halfback Robinsen, Schneider and Acker have been executing the forward pass with great accuracy during the past few days and it will be used continually in the game against the heavyweights.

The general opinion here just before the game is that St. Louis will win. What betting is being done is giving the Missouri boys a slight advantage in odds.

Team Well Prepared.

Since their arrival the St. Louis players have worked diligently under Cochems, and are in superb condition. They will go into the game in fine fettle and, with the exception of Jack Kinney, next year's captain, the regular team will be in the field. Jack Will will be unable to do anything more than view the game. Schneider will be back in his fighting togs and the players are all confident of winning.

In their pre-game talks here this morning both Cochems and Dr. Neilson, faculty representative, numbered Jack Schneider among the men who will play their last game for St. Louis University on Multnomah field today. A rumor to the effect that Schneider wouldn't be allowed to play next year emanated from the St. Louis University camp last month, but it was never verified. This morning, however, both Cochems and Dr. Neilson all but made it plain that Schneider would play his last game here this afternoon. Cochems will lose six men—Kenney, Orr, Depew, Robinson, Brennan and Schneider.

Howe Is to Coach.

It was rumored here today that Frankie Howe would coach the Gonzaga College eleven at Spokane next fall. Gonzaga has 700 students, and is one of the best equipped schools in the Pacific Northwest. For the past two years it has not been represented on the football field, but will take up football next year, and is eager to have the former quarterback do the coaching. Howe will be able, should he accept, to continue his medical practice in one of the largest hospitals in Spokane, and it is generally expected that he will. Should Gonzaga have a strong team it may again bring St. Louis to the coast for a post-season battle.

ORNINGSTAR PLANS TO CALL JAKE SCHAEFER

reply to Jake Schaefer's statement that he would never play Ora Morningstar for the 18.1 balk-line billiard championship unless the latter retracted his statement to the Post-Dispatch that Schaefer and Sutton were hurting the game, Morningstar declares that whether he wins or loses to Sutton in their match for the 18.2 chamship at New York on Jan. 28, he challenge the winner of the Schaefer-Cutler contest for the 18.1 title, at present held by Schaefer. If Schaefer refused to play Morningstar, the latter gain the championship emblem by ault.

Schaefer and Cutler are to meet in Philadelphia on Jan. 27 in a 500-point match for the 18.1 championship. Morningstar was greately amused at Schaefer's statement that he must apologize.

Morningstar Reiterates It.

..did not say anything against Jake's sonality," said Morningstar. "You not quote me as saying anything that Schaefer and Sutton were hurtthe billiard game by giving exhiions both before and after the recent mpionship matches when by playach other for their respective titles ere enabled to keep other men hallenging. When each man rehis respective title it gave a lot ons a chance to say 'I told you aefer says he will not play me? that looks good to me. If he Cutler I see whether either Jake ks up or I get the 18.1 medal by ault. I will certainly challenge him. have an idea I can beat Cutler if wins. In fact, I am willing to put the $500 called for by the rules to as a side wager that I can beat winner of the match. If Cutler wins d I beat Cutler, Jake won't have ich chance to get back his trophy unis he plays me. I guess Jake will y me all right rather than forfeit e championship. If he doesn't want play me, pie a la mode for me."

Hoppe Coming Here.

Willie Hoppe will in all probability be ought to St. Louis soon to play the local billiard academy. The New ork billiard academy with Schaefer, utton, Hoppe and others as the attracon has disbanded after a one week reer. Lack of play was the cause. Schaefer and Sutton are at present in Chicago and are to start on an exhibition tour in a few days. This will give them some good practice for their championship matches. Cutler and Hoppe are to go on an exhibition tour shortly. Meanwhile the local billiard academy is receiving a heavy play afternoon and evening.

ENGLISH SOCCER TEAM TO VISIT AMERICA IN SPRING

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Negotiations entered into between A. A. Parker of London, manager of the team of English football players styled the Corinthians, who visited this country last year, and Harry Manley, president of the New State Association Football League, expecting a series of games with an sh team next season.

SECRET PLANS OF A. A. SHOW AN INVASION

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

There seems little doubt now that the American Association has a secret plan of invading Chicago. From those who are on the inside o the association's affairs it is gathered that the prospects of a Chicago club in the minor league are stronger now than before the meeting at Chicago last Saturday and Sunday.

While nothing definite can be gathered, the plan seems to be to inform the National Commission next week that the Association will limit its expansion to Chicago if allowed to come in peacefully. If the big leagues will not allow that, it will come in anyway and in addition will invade a few more of the big league cities within the course of a year or two.

Local Club Is Possible.

The announcement made by Claude Martin of this city that he will meet C. S. Havenor here this evening, indicates that something is stirring in the St. Louis end. Martin wants to buy the Milwaukee club and transfer it to St. Louis, and has already received the terms from Havenor. If war is declared Martin stands a grand chance of getting the Brewers, and transplanting them in the territory of Hedges and Robison. Martin wants the Milwaukee club only in case it can be transfered here to his home town. If war is declared, St. Louis would probably have three clubs here next season.

Arthur Kling, sporting editor of the Indianapolis Star, and writing under the signiture of "Ark," stands as close to Owner Watkins of the Indianapolis club as any one, and in an article of Tuesday's paper, he positively asserts that the American Association will have a club in Chicago.

Up until the meeting of the magnates, Mr. Kling had treated the matter as practically impossible to invade the Windy City, and now he is completely turned in his statements and says the authority is unquestioned.

Here is a summary of Mr. Kling's conclusions:

Profiting by the mistake which led to premature publication of the plans, the association magnates refused to talk after the meeting Sunday, or else talked very reservedly. The result has been that critics who have been bears on the whole invasion proposition are minimizing the importance of the move and predicting that when permission to enter Chicago is refused the plan will be abandoned for a year at least.

There will be nothing of the sort done. You can set these down as facts coming from unquestioned authority.

The American Association will have a team in Chicago.

W. H. Watkins did not vote against the contemplated move and will not vote against it.

Tom Bryce of Columbus did not vote against it and will not vote against it.

Association magnates expect to get permission to enter Chicago.

If permission is given, Chicago will be the only city to be invaded.

If permission is not given an attempt, at least, will be made to invade Cincinnati and Pittsburg, either this season or next.

At least seven members of the association will vote together for all invasion plans.

BOWLERS READY FOR CITY GAMES

Tenpin Handicap Tournament Will Open on Big Alleys Next Sunday.

Tihrty-two five-men teams are scheduled to bowl on the De Soto Alleys Sunday evening, when the annual City Tenpin Association handicap tournament will open. Two of the strongest teams in the tournament will roll in the second squad, starting at 9:15 p. m.—the Palace and Hyde Park teams of the Palace League.

The Palace team is allowed but three pins handicap per game. The Hyde Parks receive an 18-pin allowance per game. The De Soto Stars are on scratch and the Palace team is rated second and the Hyde Park third.

Seven De Soto teams, including the De Soto Stars, the scratch team, will bowl on the opening night. As 16 alleys will be used, which is as many as will be built for the A. B. TRENDALL AND KEEFE TO CLASH

Local Boys Ready for Six-Round Bout at Granite City Club.

Harry Trendall of St. Louis and Jack Keefe of East St. Louis will fight six rounds at the Granite City A. C., Granite City, Ill., this afternoon. Through cars will leave from Third street and Washington avenue regularly. It is expected that the main event will be put on about 3:45 o'clock.

A preliminary and battle royal will precede the main event. "Buck" Burke, a Kokomo (Ind.) negro, who is said to be a terror, will clash with "Scotty," the local black who has been winning all of the battle royals in the vicinity of St. Louis for some years.

Keefe is in good condition. The East Side fighter had to make 128 pounds for Trendall and he was forced to work hard to make the weight. Trendall has been out on the road every morning in order to get in condition for the contest. The bout on the form of the men should be an excellent contest. Tommy Sullivan will act as referee.

GLOVER GETS BEST OF JEFF DOHERYT

Boston Boy Puts Up Game Fight in Six-Round Bout at New York.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Billy Glover of Boston easily outpointed Jeff Doherty in a six-round bout at the Browns gymnasium last night. In the early rounds of the contest Doherty fought viciously, and several of his hardest swings landed with effect on Glover's face and head, but the Bostonian fought back coolly and managed to hold his own. In the third and fourth rounds Glover began to take the lead, and in the last two rounds he had things all his own way.

Doherty showed himself to be a perfect glutton for punishment, for he waded into Glover and kept boring in despite the fact that his rushes were met by stinging blows. Toward the end Doherty tired perceptibly, and Glover fought him to a standstill.

Pegged on the Bases

The Phillies have 14 pitchers and seven outfielders scrapping for places on the team next season. It is quite possible that the St. Louis team will land one of the outfielders that will not be needed.

Jake Levi, the Cincinnati sporting man, is trying to buy the Louisville Club, but so far has been unable to get Owner George Tebeau to set a price. He says he will spend $40,000 to make a winning team in Louisville.

John Burke, who pitched grand ball for the Lancaster Club of the Tri-State League, will not be in baseball next season. He graduates into the priesthood next June and will take up active religious work at once.

Ed Walsh, the great pitcher of the Chicago White Sox, has been engaged to coach the Wesleyan College team through the month of February. Eddie expects to develop a spit ball twirler.

It is reported that Ed Reulbach, the sensational twirler for the world's champion Cubs, will be starred in a play to be staged before spring.

Joe Kelley has not yet signed a contract with the Boston Club of the National League, although he is acting as manager now. He will meet Owner Dovey in New York in January and in the presence of President Harry Pulliam will discuss the salary question.

Jimmy Casey, the Brooklyn third sacker, claims that he was given the double cross by the Toronto management, and now Jimmy is out looking for a job. He has several good games left in him and will undoubtedly land a place.

Many are predicting that Willie Keeler will be a bench warmer next season. With three speedy outfielders like Conroy, Hemphill and Stahl, the one-time batting wonder will have a hard time to hold a regular place. Stahl is likely to be the regular right fielder.

COMISKEY TO GIVE UP TRIP TO COAST FOR TRAINING

CHICAGO, Jan. 1.—It appears possible that the projected tour to California and Hawaii of the Chicago team of the American Baseball League may be called off unless President Comiskey secures better transportation rates for a transcontinental trip than he has thus far been able to obtain. If the Pacific trip is abandoned the team will likely be taken to Texas and begin the summer's work with a series of games with the Texas League.

Mr. Comiskey would like to take his men to California and he is impressed with the idea that Honolulu would be quite an ideal training place, the only objection being the loss of time on the ocean trips. The matter will probably be decided this week.

Sports of All Sorts

Philadelphia will send a cricket team to England next summer. It has been five years since an American team invaded the British soil, and unless the team should go next season, it could not get a schedule over there until 1911, for the Australians are booked for 1909 and the South Africans in 1910.

The Carlisle Indians have decided to adopt the eligibility rules of the big colleges to avoid further talk that they have a professional football team. Next season a code will be put in force much after the rules at the big schools.

American turfmen are buying many of the best race horses from the English stable, and there is a general howl of the London public against such action. W. K. Vanderbilt's buyer secured several at the recent sales at New Market, and many of them will be brought over to this country.

Many of the schools and colleges about Pennsylvania, especially near to Pittsburg, are taking up with hockey, and intercollege games and contests between the smaller schools are being played. The game is the most popular of winter sports there.

College athletes all over the country are speculating on their chances of making up a team to represent America in the Olympic games next summer in London. They think most of the A. A. U. men mean business in saying they will not go if Halpin is to manage the team, and they figure the team will then be picked from the colleges.

A sporting writer in Minneapolis accused the St. Louis football players of boasting and daring the Gophers into a game while they were stopping for practice in the twin city. The writer of the article also ignorantly accused the St. Louis papers of declaring the Gophers were afraid to play Cochems' team at that time, but St. Louis supporters do not recall any such stories here.

LOCAL SOCCER ELEVENS MEET CHICAGOANS AGAIN

Deciding Matches for Inter-City Honors to Take Place at Two Parks.

Chicago and St. Louis soccer elevens will play the deciding games for the intercity honors this afternoon.

The Chicago Association Club will oppose a picked team from the Athletic Park League and the Hibernians of Chicago will play the Kinlochs at Kulage Park.

The picked team looks to be a strong one and the Chicago stars will have to hustle to win. A preliminary game between the St. Teresa Juniors and Stags will also be put on, starting at 1:30 p. m. The big game will start about 3 o'clock. Dick Jarrett will referee both contests.

A double bill is also scheduled for Kulage Park. The North Ends and Shamrocks, two of the regular Kulage Park League teams, will meet in the opening game at 1:30 o'clock. The Hibernians will play the Kinlochs, a regular Kulage Park League team, in the second game.

Kinlochs Are Strong.

The Kinlochs are second in the Kulage League, the St. Leos being out in front. It was thought best to put a regular league team against the Chicago eleven than a picked team, which seldom displays the team work that a regular league eleven does, even if the picked team is composed of the better players. Paul McSweeney will referee both games.

Two other inter-league match games are also scheduled for this afternoon. The Virginia A. C. team of the Carondelet League will play the St. Marks of the C. B. C. League on the C. B. C. campus. Both teams are leading in the respective organizations and the game should be a good one.

Game at Ellendale Park.

The Empires of the West End League will line up against the Shamrocks of the Suburban League in a game at Ellendale Park. These two teams are also leaders in their leagues. Both games will be started at 3 p. m.

The C. B. C. soccer team of the Amateur League left last night for Chicago, where the college boys will play the Hyde Park Blues at the American League baseball park this afternoon. The C. B. C. team will return Friday. A return game with the Chicago team will be booke dfor Washington's Birthday. The C. B. C. team is second in the Amateur League.

The line-up for the two big Chicago-St. Louis games follow:

OH, HORROR OF CRAVEN DEATH IN 'THE SUBMARINE!'

Nethersole's Parisian "Shocker" Dismays Big Audience at Olympic.

IT MAY be that French sailors face sudden death with cries of fear, groveling in abject panic and, at the last, fighting one another like scared rats for the one remote chance of escape—a Frenchman wrote "The Submarine," presented by Olga Nethersole's company at the Olympic last night, and all Paris is still going wild over its 25 minutes of horror.

But one couldn't help thinking of that strikingly different scene in Havana Harbor nine years ago, when Marine Sergeant "Bill" Anthony of the American navy made his way through the sudden blackness of awful calamity and, standing at salute before Capt. Sigsbee of the United States battleship Maine, said calmly:

"Sir, I have the honor to report that the ship has been blown up and is sinking."

The demand for fortitude was at least as great on the Maine as on the French submarine Feu Follet—266 American sailors then went down to death imprisoned "like dogs in a leaden cage," as one of the French sailors said last night, but the Americans died like heroes, not like dogs. Let's hope that, even though doomed to unnecessary sacrifice by the foolhardiness of an opium-crazed commander, French sailors don't really die as cravenly as they are made to die in "The Submarine"—it's a tragedy indeed, for France, if they do.

Many Persons Fled, Horror-Stricken.

Many persons left the Olympic during the progress of this dreadful little dramatic "shocker" last night, stricken with horror. It was played with almost appalling realism by Frank Mills, as Commander Leroux of the Feu Follet; Langhorne Burton as the young and inexperienced Ensign Marteville, George Ingleton as First Steersman Yvonne, Lionel Belmore as Chief Engineer Louis and Saline Mills as Chief Torpedo Server Vincent, and the scenic setting was so graphic that one seemed to be looking actually into the navigating room of a submarine, seeing the craft sink from the sunlight of the ocean's surface to the black-green obscurity of 20 fathoms' depth. The veritable death of the [illegible] ship's crew was shown, too; a [illegible]tmare of soul-shaken mortality—and [illegible] the whole pitiful story of "blue [illegible]" was hideously emphasized by the [illegible] funeral oration of the French Minister of Marine in the closing act, telling how "heroically" the men of the Feu Follet had died.

A New Year's Eve Nightmare.

The whole thing was worthy of the horror-feeding pen of Edgar Allan Poe or pencil of Gustave Dore—just one hour before the New Year's dawn an audience that had packed the Olympic to [its] utmost capacity came out into the frosty night, openly protesting against the gruesome quality of the offering. But that's precisely what Miss Nethersole desires, they tell us—the American production of "The Submarine" is her contribution to the movement for universal peace, a nerve-racking exposition of the horrors of war. It's to be repeated again tonight, preceding the production of "I' Pagliacci," for this same reason. Miss Nethersole seeks to dispel the glamour that has heretofore made heroic the figure of the "fighting man." But the sacrificed men of the Feu Follet weren't "fighting men," according to the story's showing. The only brave man among them was made brave by opium—let's believe that such a ship's crew never had a real existence in the French navy.

Else can we never think again of Casabianca, the French lad who so pluckily "stood on the burning deck" facing Death with an undaunted boy's eyes, without recalling "The Submarine" and sighing in profound pity.
